Employment In California Shows Healthy Increase

CONDITIONS IMPROVING, SAYS REPORT

Employment Within 87 Per Cent of All-time Peak Established in 1929

FACTORIES SHOW GAIN

Farm Section of State's Chamber Advocates "No Work No Eat" Policy

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 26.—(UP)—

As 1000 California business leaders assembled today to consider resolutions presented in the annual convention of the state chamber of commerce, they heard optimistic reports of sizeable gains in employment in the state.

Statistics presented by the chamber research department showed 1934 employment within 87.9 per cent of the all-time peak of 2,606,000 registered in 1929. The present total was set at 1,764,000, which is 190,000 more than were employed in 1933 and 243,000 more than were working in 1932.

Employment in factories showed gratifying gains, the statisticians said. The total has risen to 306,500, which is only 58,000 less than the 1929 peak year.

Encouraged by these figures after listing to pessimistic accounts of the state financial condition in yesterday's opening session, the directors took up the resolutions already passed by the six statewide sections. Meanwhile the section committees will draft legislative proposals to be placed before the state legislature in January.

The agricultural section advocated a "no work no eat" policy which applied to farm strikes, with the resolution specifying that federal relief be denied those who refuse available jobs. The section also recommended that jobless persons in other states be warned that there is no work available for them in California. A third move claimed delay of the federal labor department in instituting deportation proceedings against strike agitators was of "utmost seriousness."

The California wine industry proposed that it be relieved of the "excessive state license permit and taxing regulations" and that the wine institute's program for the industry be supported. The industrial committee urged action against automobile caravans whose drivers are left without jobs when they reached here. The travel committee planned to ask the University of California regents to change the opening and closing dates of the term to conform with Stanford and other universities. In order to stimulate travel. The industrial committee proposed that better food conditions be observed in CCC camps.

MOB TAKES NEGRO FROM ALABAMA JAIL

BREWTON, Ala., Oct. 26.—(UP)—An armed mob of 100 men stormed the county jail here early today and seized Claude Neal, 25-year-old Negro who yesterday confessed criminally attacking and murdering a young Florida girl last week.

Sheriff G. S. Bryne of Escambia county, said the men suddenly appeared in 30 automobiles, mostly bearing Florida license plates, rushed into the jail, seized the keys and departed with the prisoner.

TWO KILLED UNDER WHEELS OF TRAIN

DOUGLAS, Ariz., Oct. 26.—(UP)—Two men were killed beneath trains in the railroad yards here early today.

The body of Waldo P. Green, World War veteran, about 35, was badly mangled after a freight train had passed over it. Identification papers found in his clothing indicated he was a close friend of Thomas L. Blanton, congressman from Texas.

Lorenzo Pedregon, 26, was killed when he fell in front of a switch engine. Both his legs were severed.

HOPE OF BONUS PAYMENT SOON NOT PROMISING

Official Washington Sees Presidential Opposition to Measure

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26.—(UP)—Immediate payment of the $2,000,000,000 cash bonus, as demanded by the American Legion, was seen in authoritative circles today as having small chance of becoming a reality.

The hopes of the Legionnaires conflict directly with the attitude of the administration, which feels the war veterans should take "pat luck" with the rest of the nation in the recovery drive.

Bonus legislation, however, undoubtedly will be introduced at the next session of congress in January. Experts say the house may pass it, but that the senate probably will not.

Even if the senate should do a right-about-face, President Roosevelt almost certainly would produce a quick veto.

Mr. Roosevelt has indicated repeatedly, the last time in his Roanoke, Va., address a few days ago, that he believes payment of the bonus 10 years before due is ill-advised.

He feels expenditure of such an enormous sum would wreck all attempts to balance the budget and would cripple the recovery program.

The rapidly changing political scene also seems to be against the distribution of checks to war veterans.

During the last session of congress the bonus was a real political issue. Votes for the bonus meant votes for congressmen. The house consequently passed the Patman bonus bill overwhelmingly in deference to the demands of voters.

When the measure reached the senate, pressure from the White House was brought to bear. The bill languished in a pigeon hole the last days of the session. Then it was brought to the floor and defeated.

Leaders knew that Mr. Roosevelt's veto hung over their heads. This year the bonus is not nearly so important a political issue. With elections over and legislators safely in their seats for another term, there are expected to be fewer bonus votes merely for the sake of political expediency.

OLL MONOPOLY IN MANCHUKUO CONTEMPLATED

United States, Britain and Netherlands File Pro-Test With Japan

TOKYO, Oct. 26.—(UP)—In a statement recommending that protesting nations approach Manchukuo directly on its oil control plans, Eiji Amai, foreign office spokesman, said today that Manchukuo is planning state control of oil sales but not of exports and imports.

The Manchukuan plans brought protests from the United States, Great Britain and the Netherlands, which made representations to Japan claiming that the "open door" policy and treaty provisions were being violated.

The statement, in part a replica of one given the protesting nations months ago, according to Amai, said the foreign office does not believe Manchukuo intends to monopolize all petroleum sales through the Manchurian Petroleum company.

Amai again maintained that Japan is not responsible for Manchukuo and that Japan is a "foreign nation," like the others, in the new empire set up with the aid of Japanese soldiery. In a previous declaration he had suggested that the United States, if it did not choose to go direct to Manchukuo, might file its protest with the Chinese national government, which it still recognizes as responsible for the northern provinces used to form a new country.

Makes Inquiries
The informal statement of the oil monopoly question issued by the foreign office here said that the United States and Great Britain, through their embassies, had inquired on July 2 and July 7, respectively, regarding Manchukuo's plans.

Japan replied at that time that it had nothing to do with the policy of the Manchukuo government and was not in a position to explain.

However, on the basis of "information recently received by our government for purposes of reference," the following may be stated, the statement read:

It then proceeded to inform the American and British representatives that the "Manchurian Petroleum company" was incorporated under the Manchukuan petroleum law which "confers no monopolistic rights of any company."

The petroleum law, it was explained, does not restrict opportunities on account of the nationality of stockholders. Manchukuo is contemplating state control of oil sales but will not control imports or exports.

Heavy Investment
The foreign office informed the other nations that it does not believe Manchukuo plans to monopolize all sales, although the south Manchuria railway has invested heavily in the sales company set up under the national law.

The statement says that the Japanese government cannot prevent Japanese capital from investing in the Manchurian Petroleum company nor dissuade Manchukuo from forming a monopoly.

Even Bankers Ask Aid Of Reporters

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26.—Even big bankers sometimes are short of ready cash. It happened to Francis M. Law, former president of the American Bankers' association, today and he was forced to borrow a quarter from a reporter.

Law, at the White House to pay his respects to President Roosevelt, discovered he didn't have taxi fare. He dashed into the lobby and Gus Tarry, Wall Street Journal correspondent, came to the rescue.

POLL REVEALS "NEW DEAL" IS LOSING FAVOR

Literary Digest Vote Today Shows Seventeen States Unfavorable

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26.—(UP)—The New Deal is slipping but still dominant in most of the vital states as the campaign approaches its final full week.

This trend was indicated in a Literary Digest poll showing a majority of straw voters in 17 states to be anti-New Deal.

Political observers generally maintain their belief, however, that the 74th congress will be overwhelmingly Democratic. Two-thirds majorities of both House and Senate are forecast by the more optimistic Democratic spokesmen.

Republicans found new hope in the Digest figures. But United Press inquiry in states most likely to subvert the Democrats for Democrats next month does not discover evidence the New Deal is slipping fast enough to upset Democratic calculations for general success on election day.

Chairman James A. Farley of the Democratic National committee believes the Democratic house losses and gains will offset each other to continue for two years the top-heavy administration majority.

Democrats claim they are sure to win the Republican Senate seats now occupied by Cutting, N. M.; Fess, O.; Hatfield, W. Va.; Kean, N. J.; Patterson, Mo.; and Goldsborough, Md.

Sen. Henrik Shipstead, Farmer-Labor, Minn., is a possible casualty. If Democrats can pick up four seats they will possess the coveted two-thirds majority although it would not be New Deal control by that margin. Among the Democratic membership are several senators whose support of administration policy is uncertain.

Sen. Arthur Robinson, R., Ind., is in a close and uncertain race against Sherman Minton, Democrat. The only Democratic senator in trouble is Joseph C. O'Mahoney, named last session to a Wyoming vacancy. New Deal political headquarters has ordered outside speaking talent to aid him against Vincent Carter, Republican candidate.

Campaign guessers believe the Republicans may gain from 10 to 15 seats.

SINCLAIR NOT TO RETIRE IN HAIGHT FAVOR

Wild Political Rumors Are Spiked by Epic Candidate in Oakland

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 26.—(UP)—After 24 hours of the wildest kind of political rumors, California electorate learned today that Upton Sinclair, Democratic candidate in the three-cornered gubernatorial contest, has refused to withdraw from the race because he believes he will win "by 2 to 1."

Raymond L. Haight, Commonwealth party nominee, made the suggestion directly to Sinclair that the sponsor of the "Epic" plan strike out Haight sought to consolidate the progressive vote against the ultra conservative Republican candidate, Gov. Frank Merriam.

"I promised to think about his suggestion and let him know my decision," Sinclair said. "I have consulted with our 'Epic' leaders who are best in position to know and they tell me that I shall beat Governor Merriam 2 to 1."

Haight had intimated broadly that a "bombshell" will be dropped within a few days that will upset the entire course of the campaign. He refused to disclose what this surprise will be.

It was Haight who arranged the now-famous conference at Sacramento which led to the wild rumors sweeping the state yesterday.

When first approached about the meeting, Sinclair claimed Haight had come to him to give him information that the Merriam forces "are preparing 5,000,000 circulars to be distributed over the state at the last minute announcing Mr. Haight had withdrawn in Merriam's favor."

"Mr. Haight assured me that this statement was false and asked me to help warn the voters as to the trick," the Democratic candidate said.

When Haight, who had been trying to avoid press contacts all day in Los Angeles, was interviewed he said that the real purpose of the conference had been to discuss Sinclair's withdrawal.

Opponents Meet
"Mr. Sinclair and I met in the Sacramento valley," the Los Angeles candidate said. "He fully, frankly and voluntarily discussed the progressive cause would secure through his withdrawal."

Sinclair, appearing at a mass meeting of 15,000 persons in Oakland, then issued his statement declining Haight's "friendly suggestion."

The Democratic candidate urged them to vote "the straight Democratic ticket" in the election. He reiterated statements that he had been misquoted concerning conversations with President Roosevelt, Secretary Ickes, Father Coughlin of Detroit and other leaders.

He repeated statements that he will carry on his drive to "end poverty in California" through the "Epic" plan.

Declares He Gave Aid To U. S. Agents

Thomas Robinson sr. Testifies His Actions Approved by Police

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Oct. 26.—(UP)—Thomas H. Robinson sr., testified today that he participated in the payment to his son of the $50,000 Alice Stoll ransom with the belief that federal agents approved the action.

Fighting to prevent removal to Louisville where he is charged with violation of the Lindbergh kidnap law in connection with the abduction of Mrs. Stoll, the elderly Nashville contractor told of conferring with C. C. Stoll and Frederick Sackett, relatives of Mrs. Stoll.

The two came here and urged him to send the ransom to Thomas H. Robinson Jr., sought now for the actual kidnaping, the father said.

The family representatives, Robinson contended, pleaded for him to participate in the transaction and informed him the procedure was sanctioned by department of justice agents.

After the agreement to pay the ransom, Robinson testified, he signed for the $50,000, shipped to him by express, and gave it to Mrs. Frances Robinson, his daughter-in-law, who carried it to young Robinson in Indianapolis and effected the safe return of Mrs. Stoll.

"That was the end of my connection in every way," concluded Robinson.

Former Chancellor John R. Aust and Judge A. G. Ewing testified favorably to the father's character.

LATE NEWS FLASHES

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 26.—(UP)—An all-California final was assured in the Western Women's Golf championship today when Mrs. Leona D. Cheney of San Gabriel defeated Mrs. W. L. Shenard of Los Angeles and Miss Dorothy Traug of San Francisco defeated Mrs. Melvin Jones of Chicago in semi-final matches.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26.—(UP)—President Roosevelt insisted today that he could not take part in any campaign when asked whether there had been an understanding between him and Upton Sinclair, Democratic nominee for governor of California.

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 26.—(UP)—George Creel has "sold out" to the money barons of Wall Street, Richard S. Otto, Upton Sinclair's campaign manager, charged today after learning of Creel's repudiation of Sinclair.

CREEL EMPHASIZES ATTITUDE AGAINST SINCLAIR IN PUBLIC LETTER; OPPOSED TO MERRIAM

BULLETIN (Copyright, 1934, by United Press)

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—(UP)—George Creel today made public here a letter he had written Upton Sinclair withdrawing his offer to support Sinclair for the office of Governor of California.

Creel made no mention in the letter, however, of the possibility of giving his support to any other candidate.

He withdrew his offer, the letter said, because he could not adhere to the Sinclair program advanced after the state Democratic platform was adopted, in what Sinclair calls "immediate Epic"—a somewhat altered revision of his original "Epic Plan."

The letter was written in Washington, dated October 13, and sent to Sinclair at Pasadena, Calif. Creel's only mention of any other candidate is a reference to conversations with Sinclair "between primary day and the election," in which Creel says, "I stated my inability to stomach Merriam and his medieval owners and stressed a desire to support you."

Denounces Plan
The man Sinclair defeated for the Democratic nomination for governor—denounces Sinclair's plan as "absolutely unrealistic, bound to betray hope, and leading inevitably to the tragedy of disappointment."

"Immediate Epic" I am sorry to confess, puts me back exactly where I was in the primary campaign," Creel concludes his letter.

BANKERS' HEAD PAYS VISIT TO WHITE HOUSE

Calls on President Roosevelt to Pledge Co-operation in Program

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26.—(UP)—Full cooperation of bankers throughout the country in the recovery drive was pledged to President Roosevelt today by Rudolf Hecht, of New Orleans, new head of the American Bankers' association.

"I told the president we were all ball players who wanted to play on that all-American team and he accepted our offer," Hecht said. Mr. Roosevelt referred to an all-American business team in his address to the bankers earlier in the week.

"I do not know why there shouldn't be full cooperation on the part of the bankers," Hecht added. "Mr. Jackson Reynolds expressed our unanimous position. The bankers are going to go out of their way to let people know that they are anxious to make loans."

Hecht explained that a large advertising campaign was in contemplation in connection with a concerted movement to open credit channels.

"We are going to bring that home to the people," he said. "We have all got to play together and bankers must let people know that banks are willing to do their part."

Hecht came to the White House with Francis M. Law, former president of the American Bankers' association, Robert V. Fleming, first vice president, and Tom K. Smith, of St. Louis, second vice president.

DEMANDS OF JAPAN HELD VITAL ISSUE

British and Americans in Agreement Negotiations Must Be Broken Asunder

ANSWER IS EXPECTED

Japanese Claims to Equality Held Unreasonable By Two Other Nations

LONDON, Oct. 26.—(UP)—American and British delegations are agreed that negotiations must be broken off if Japan insists on actual naval equality at conversations here, it was learned authoritatively today.

It was emphasized, however, that the stage has not been reached where such a rupture is a real issue, and that both Americans and British believe Japan is prepared to produce proposals much more conciliatory than those outlined in the first talks.

The British-American agreement, it was learned, was disclosed yesterday when Norman H. Davis, chief American delegate, talked to Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald.

Japanese and British conferred again today. Japan was expected to answer British questions regarding its proposals. Japanese and Americans probably will meet again Monday.

In talking to the American delegates at their first meeting, it was learned, the Japanese delegates made their claim to equality, proposed a "common upper limit" to the size of navies and, in reply to a question by Admiral William H. Standley, American chief of naval operations, said Japan regarded battleships, aircraft carriers and eight-inch gun cruisers as offensive weapons.

The "common upper limit" was apparently another term for global tonnage—itsself concealing in the usual diplomatic language the form of naval agreement in which a nation, allotted a given tonnage for warships, might use it to build ships of any size or sort that it liked.

Japan's definition of battleships, aircraft carriers and eight-inch gun cruisers was expected, as well as its implication that other craft, six-inch gun cruisers, destroyers and submarines, were defensive.

The United States and Great Britain will insist on continuing to base their navies on battleships and will continue to build aircraft carriers. The United States is not prepared to give up eight-inch gun cruisers.

CONFESSES KILLING SIX OF HIS FAMILY

QUEBEC, Que., Oct. 26.—(UP)—Rosaire Blodreau, 45, confessed to police today that he killed six members of his family. He led police to where he left four bodies, but could not remember where he left the other two.

Blodreau, a former mail clerk, went on his murder rampage yesterday. Police said he was dazed.

Victims were: His sisters, Miss Mary and Miss Rosalie Blodreau, 63 and 62; his cousins, Miss Yvette Gaudin, 21; Gaston Gaudin, 20; Ferdinand Gaudin, 10; Octave Fiset, assistant postmaster. Two of Fiset's assistants were wounded.

CUMMINGS TO KEEP OUT OF ELECTIONS

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26.—(UP)—Attorney General Homer Cummings reiterated today that the justice department desires to steer clear of disputes surrounding the forthcoming elections.

In line with that policy, he said he "probably" would not appoint any federal deputies to supervise elections in California, Pennsylvania, New Jersey and other states from which requests have been received.

A Democratic leader in California had asked Cummings to appoint 3500 special deputies there, charging that otherwise there would be wholesale fraud and many citizens would be denied their right to vote.

Launch Plan For Creek Bed Park

S. A. LIONS CLUB URGES PROJECT AS SERA MOVE

Visiting a large recreational park along the wide bed of the Santiago creek from Santa Ana boulevard northeastward to the city limits and thence to the Orange city park on South Glassell street, joining the two cities with a centrally located and much-needed playground for the public, members of the Civic Affairs committee of the Santa Ana Lions club initiated a program yesterday which club members believe will furnish the community a long-desired civic asset.

In conjunction with launching the new movement for an adequate park for the city of Santa Ana in conjunction with the present Orange park program, the Lions committee asked the support of all individuals and organizations in the city, and also county authorities whose aid would be necessary to complete the project by completing the park in the territory lying between the municipal limits of the two cities.

Use Relief Funds
The co-operation of city officials was asked in securing title to the creek bed and submitting the park development plan as an SERA project. If approved, the park would be constructed with all labor paid by the Federal government from relief funds, it was pointed out, and the park would become a permanent community asset with a minimum of expense locally.

"Santa Ana needs a large SERA project which can be developed by large numbers of workmen during the coming winter, and this Santiago Park plan fills the bill ideally," said Wayne Goble, a member of the Lions committee and active in civic affairs today.

"There may be close to 20 acres of land available for the purpose inside the Santa Ana city limits from the Santa Ana boulevard bridge to the easterly city limits, and another area in county territory, from that point to the Orange city limits.

"This is now an eyesore to those who pass by, and a pain in the neck to those who believe that relief workers should be employed close to home, at a project of permanent community value, instead of having to drive great distances to their work and then spend their time manhandling heavy loads or doing jobs which a steam shovel could do much better and cheaper.

"The creek bed is now a dumping ground; a jungle for hoboes; a detriment to the entire north part of the city. Through the use of SERA labor during the coming months, and using material largely contained on the property itself, this area could be made into a recreational park, with athletic courts, Greek theater, swimming pool, barbecue picnic grounds, or most anything desired.

Large Amount of Labor
"As envisioned by our committee, this project, we believe, offers the greatest amount of labor, with the smallest expense for materials, and with a minimum of maintenance expense of any project which could be devised. It has the further advantage that crews could be large or small from day to day, as the SERA relief work needs may vary, and take up the slack between other SERA projects.

"The committee hopes this project may have the co-operation of the city council in securing deeds to the property involved and submitting it as a SERA project; of the property owners in making the park possible by granting the creek bed lands to the city; of the county by carrying the park from the city limits of Santa Ana to the city limits of Orange, and of the SERA committee by approving the project and thus making it possible for workmen to be employed here at home instead of having to drive great distances to their employment.

"In view of all of the possible benefits as outlined, plus the added factor of straightening the creek channel and protecting adjoining property from further flood damage, we believe this park project merits the support of all individuals and organizations of the community."

20 House seats—perhaps more—among Iowa, Illinois, Michigan, Indiana, Nebraska, California, New Jersey and South Dakota.

In Michigan, South Dakota and North Dakota may be detected the most emphatic trend away from the New Deal. The latter state kept a 100 per cent Republican delegation in congress despite the 1932 Democratic landslide, but its Republicans are of the progressive wing.

There appears to be in the minds of many voters a distinction between the New Deal national administration and New Deal state candidates. Reports and opinions from Nebraska, for instance, indicate a coolness toward state Democratic candidates but a preference for the Roosevelt administration. Iowa reflects a somewhat similar situation in which enthusiasm for the New Deal is less evident in support of local candidates than for the national administration.

JAIL 3 PERSONS FOR DRUNK DRIVING

Three persons were booked at the county jail yesterday for drunken driving.

Mrs. Hilda Wicks, 46, 272 South Laurel street, Brea, who was taken to the Orange County hospital Wednesday for extreme intoxication, was booked at the jail last evening by Chief W. H. Williams of Brea.

John E. Turner, 74, Brea, was booked at the jail yesterday morning by Constable William Tremaine of Brea.

Gilbert M. Templeton, 45, Los Angeles, sentenced to pay $200 or serve 30 days in jail by Judge Fred Smith of Seal Beach, was booked at the jail yesterday afternoon by Chief Criminal Deputy Sheriff Merle Dean, who was in Seal Beach and returned the prisoner.

OIL MONOPOLY IN MANCHUKUO CONTEMPLATED

To this point today's informal statement followed closely the text of the reply given Great Britain and the United States.

To that reply, the foreign office today added that according to Manchukuo's views "the open door means an obligation to refrain from granting exclusive privileges to certain foreign countries."

"Therefore in Manchukuo's opinion enforcement of its law for petroleum control does not constitute a violation of the open door policy as long as it does not anticipate different treatment of Japanese and other foreigners on account of nationality."

The statement ended with the terse recommendation that the nations, which consistently have refused to recognize the Manchukuo empire as an independent nation, approach Emperor Kang Teh's government directly about the problem.

MAN DECLARED DEAD LIVES FOR 16 HOURS

CHICAGO, Oct. 26. — (UP)—Physicians of Lutheran Deaconess hospital revealed today that a 26-year-old man was revived yesterday after officially being declared dead and lived for 16 hours in an oxygen tent.

The patient, Harold D. Well, died "again" last night of a blood clot on his brain.

Dr. William S. Bolkan, notified Well's family that he had died and assured two brain specialists, Dr. W. R. Keeton and Dr. George B. Hassin, whom he had summoned, that they were too late.

The three physicians resorted to artificial respiration. A trace of color touched Well's cheeks. An eyelid twitched. His lungs gasped and slowly, irregularly, took up the burden they had almost laid down.

Motion for a new trial of the suit between Sarah Ann Newcomb and the City of Newport Beach, involving title to 19 acres of tideland between Lido Isle and the mainland, was on file today in superior court and has been set for hearing November 16.

The city's move for a new trial was received with some surprise, inasmuch as City Attorney Roland Thompson had expressed the city as well satisfied with the court's decision in the first trial, which gave Mrs. Newcomb title to the property, but held it subject to use for the purpose of navigation.

That, it was said, permitted the dredging of the harbor at that point, and really gave Mrs. Newcomb title to 19 acres of harbor bottom.

VOTERS HEAR DISCUSSION ON AMENDMENTS

Pro and con discussion of amendments on the November ballot was heard last night at a meeting of the League of Women Voters, held at the Santa Ana Y. M. C. A., as speakers discussed what they considered the good and bad features of the various measures.

Mrs. F. H. Heine, league president, presided over the meeting and introduced the speakers, who were limited to brief review of the points they presented.

The Rev. P. F. Schrock, pastor of the First Congregational church, opposed Amendment No. 2, a proposal to permit sale of beer and light wines without meals, and the sale of hard liquor at hotels and cafes. It would bring back the open saloon, he said.

He spoke in favor of Amendment 13, the local option measure, as a "good Democratic principle" of letting the people decide what they want. Local law enforcement officers seem to have no voice in prosecuting violations of the law at present, he said.

O. A. Jacobs, Santa Ana attorney, opposing the local option amendment, said he was doing so not because he opposed local option, but because the way the measure was drawn, it looked to him like the liquor interests had a hand in framing it, he said.

"I do not favor the present condition, but it can't be cured by Amendment 13," he said. He urged defeat of the measure, to be followed by a conference of ministers and others interested in true temperance conditions, to immediately prepare a new proposal for local option, to be submitted to the voters at the first opportunity.

Veteran Home Bonds

Harry Edwards, Orange County Veterans' Welfare officer, discussed Amendment No. 1, the $30,000,000 bond issue proposal for veteran home loans. He outlined the history of the present Veterans' Loan Act, the continued operation of which would be financed by the new bond issue, three previous bond issues, aggregating $50,000,000, having been exhausted, except for $4,000,000. These bond issues, he explained, are self-liquidating, and cost the taxpayers nothing. For the $50,000,000 already voted, the state now has property worth $56,000,000, and the $4,000,000 balance. Only 17 homes and 5 farms have been repossessed, he said.

No opposition to Amendment No. 1 appeared.

Assemblyman James Utt, of the 74th district, discussed No. 8, the proposal for a constitutional convention; No. 12, which he said was designed to control loan sharks; No. 19, relating to state bonds, and No. 22, providing joint exercise of power by political subdivisions.

He advised defeat of No. 8, saying that whatever new constitution might be framed, would be both good and bad, and that the people would immediately start amending it again, as they have the present constitution. He pointed out that all present laws have been interpreted by the courts in the light of the present constitution, and a new constitution would scrap the court decisions of half a century. A new start would be necessary, and our courts would be crowded with this work for the next 10 or 20 years, he said.

No. 12, said Utt, dealing with interest rates, is a move by the people to write a limit of 10 per cent interest into the constitution. Under the present 12 per cent statute, money lending institutions are exempt, and through the subterfuge of brokerage affiliations, are collecting as high as 21 per cent interest. In the large industrial centers these loan sharks are getting their salaries into a state of peonage, he said. He urged passage of No. 12.

No. 19, he said, had proved to contain faulty phrasing, which made its meaning uncertain, and its sponsors now desired to have it defeated so that a new and clearer proposal could be presented. A vote of "no," therefore, was suggested.

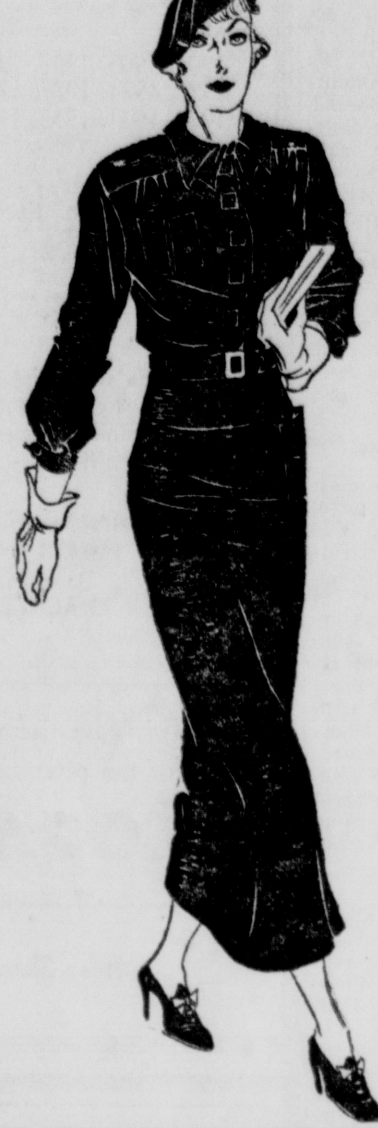

Amendment 22 would permit cities or counties, for example, to combine their police or fire departments, or any other officers for the sake of convenience or economy, or other reason. It would be especially convenient for the small, unpopulated counties, he said, advocating adoption of the amendment.

Assistant District Attorney W. F. Menton, discussing Amendment 7, which changes the existing civil service act of 1913, said there was little controversy over the

CONRAD FLAYS INACTIVITY OF COUNTY BOARD

If the Orange county supervisors really were as anxious to conserve water and develop new supplies for irrigation, and to provide flood protection which the county needs as they say they are, these projects could have been carried out long before this, Elton G. Conrad declared in a radio address over station KREG last night.

Conrad, who was formerly mayor of Huntington Beach and now is a candidate for supervisor from the Second district, took the incumbent supervisor from that district to task for his inactivity during the past eight years, and compared that inactivity with the present pre-election promises being made on behalf of the incumbent.

"If the present supervisor really believed in the saving of sewage water for irrigation, he could have had a large complete plant in operation by this time, and with practically no cost to the taxpayers, for it could have been done under the CWA, PWA, or the present SRA," Conrad declared. Such a project, he said, would have provided something of permanent county value from relief work instead of "manicuring highways" to provide the needed employment.

Conrad called attention to the fact that officials too often fail for years to carry out projects which the people want, and then make rosy promises as election time rolls around seeking the people's votes once more.

"My platform calls for immediate and aggressive action in augmenting our dwindling supply of water for irrigation," the speaker continued.

THERMOMETER SERVICE TO BE GIVEN GROWERS

Thermometers kept by Orange county growers again will be tested for accuracy free of charge by the United States Weather Bureau, according to word received today by the farm advisor's office from Harold Rathbone, weather bureau meteorologist.

Growers were asked to tag each thermometer with his name and the name of his citrus association, placing the tags on the thermometer to prevent their being lost.

The thermometers will be picked up, tested, and returned to the various packing houses. Dates for picking up the thermometers in Orange county are: November 8, La Habra, Fullerton, Placentia, Yorba Linda, Olive, Anaheim and Garden Grove; November 13, Orange, Tustin, Santa Ana and San Juan Capistrano.

Since special equipment has to be set up for taking care of this work, no testing will be done this year after the dates given above. Attention of growers was brought especially to this fact since in the past any number have been disappointed by getting their thermometers to the packing house too late to be picked up, according to W. M. Cory, assistant farm advisor.

MAYOR HOGUE NEW HEAD OF CITY LEAGUE

Mayor L. A. Hogue of Brea, former vice president of the Orange County League of Municipalities, was unanimously chosen president of the organization for the next year to succeed A. C. Hasenjaeger of Santa Ana as one of the features of the monthly meeting held at Seal Beach last night.

Mayor Charles Mann of Anaheim was named to succeed Hogue as vice president while City Attorney Albert Launer of Fullerton was re-elected secretary. At the close of the meeting, following several talks praising Hasenjaeger's regime as president, he was elected an honorary member of the league, since he is no longer a city official in Santa Ana.

The principal discussion at the meeting concerned the SRA municipal survey project, sponsored by the league. Hogue and Fred P. Jayne of the SRA staff explained the phases of the project and thanked the cities for the speedy action in approving the proposition.

Survey Outlined
The survey project will be a study and analysis of county cities and their various methods of procedure in conducting all governmental functions, including tax assessing and collecting, fire departments, police departments, water systems and other departments. The study is expected to determine the most efficient methods of government, the most economical methods without losing efficiency, possible co-operation between departments of other cities, towns and the county, and possibility of greater economy.

The SRA will furnish all the labor and a supervisor, the latter to be chosen by the cities. The project will provide work for two statisticians, six searchers, six clerks, four stenographers and four typists from October 31 to December 27, providing the project is approved on schedule.

The cost of the project will be $3764, of which $500 is for materials. The final data will be given to all the cities for any action that may be desired. Each city is now appointing a representative to act on a committee to sign the project and work out the details with Jayne and SRA heads.

City representatives named to date are Mayor Charles Mann of Anaheim, Mayor L. A. Hogue of Brea, Attorney Ray Overacker of Huntington Beach, Councilman A. J. Wilson of La Habra, Mayor Hermann Hilmer of Newport Beach, Mayor C. J. Hessel of Orange, Mayor E. G. Warner of Santa Ana, Mayor A. T. Smith of Seal Beach, Mayor C. R. Young of Placentia, and Mayor William Huntley of Tustin. Laguna Beach and Fullerton are yet to make a selection.

Jayne emphasized the need for more projects so that the SRA program could be continued. He said that he was now employing 656 persons on 48 projects in the professional, women's and technical division, while there were about 1600 persons working in all types of SRA work.

Mayor Pomeroy of Southgate

HEADS LEAGUE

Mayor L. A. Hogue, of Brea, was elected last night president of the Orange County League of Municipalities, succeeding A. C. Hasenjaeger of Santa Ana.

—Pitney, Anaheim.

and J. W. Charleyville, executives of the California league, lauded the Orange county officials for sponsoring such a worthy project and declared it was the most progressive step in efficient government undertaken by any league in the state.

Legislative Work
Pomeroy outlined recent developments in the legislative branch of the state league and told of efforts being made to secure remedial legislation on the 1915 special assessment bonds. Pomeroy also discussed Constitutional Amendment No. 22 concerning joining of powers by cities and counties, and urged that it be defeated as a cumbersome and wholly unnecessary piece of legislation.

Mann and Launer gave comprehensive reports on the recent convention of the state league in Pasadena. Launer touched on the formation of the Franchise Investigation League which has been formed to aid cities in determining how public utility companies pay franchise taxes and seek further legislation to insure cities of a legitimate return from the franchises.

Assemblymen Ted Craig and James Utt were praised for their consistent help to the county and state league. Both were present and spoke briefly on their support of projects favored by the city officials. B. Z. McKinney, candidate for district attorney, was introduced and spoke briefly. James H. Mitchell, of Burbank, former president of the state league, was introduced.

In turning over the presidency to Hogue at the close of the meeting, Hasenjaeger stressed the constant need for relief from taxation and advisability of consolidation of county functions. He reminded the league that he had spoken of these problems when inaugurated last year and declared that the municipal survey project was a forward step in the study of this problem.

Mayor Hughes of Seal Beach welcomed the league to Seal Beach, following a dinner served in the Seal Beach civic auditorium. The next meeting will be held in Brea on November 22.

COMMUNISM IS DISCUSSED BY CHIEF DAVIS

To strike out the Communism which he said has been rooted in practically every form of American industry, society, educational institutions and religious institutions, Chief James Davis of the L. A. police department, speaking before a crowd which jammed the Veterans Hall here last night, offered a three-point program.

"First," Chief Davis said, "we must deport every alien Communist in the United States. Second, we must take every power-seeking American who cannot gain power by any other way who belongs to the Communist party or a subsidiary Communist organization, who is a worse traitor to his country than Benedict Arnold, and take them out of positions of trust and influence to place them in positions of obscurity. Third, it is your duty at the coming session of legislature to have laws passed to outlaw the Communist party in this state and adopt a program which other states can follow."

Preceding the address, the most remarkable exhibition of pistol shooting ever staged here, was given by Sgt. J. O. Dirks, Patrolman R. J. Nowka and Patrolman C. E. Ward, all members of the Los Angeles police department international championship team which has captured the world title for four years. The marksmen shot pistols upside down, with both hands in any position, backwards, crouched over and shooting backwards between their legs, blindfolded, a pistol in each hand and hitting the mark at the same time with both pistols shooting as one, and never missed.

Expert Shots
The champion marksmen, all of whom hold many national and international titles, shot cigarettes and chalk out of each others' mouths, ears and hands, knocked ashes from cigars and in one case accomplished an announced feat a shooting a band from the cigar in another's mouth without touching the cigar. They split thin cardboard from the edge and performed other remarkable demonstrations. Chief Davis himself shot twice, once with guns upside down, hitting the bulls eye both times.

Chief Davis, who was introduced by Chief Floyd Howard of Santa Ana at the meeting which was sponsored by the Legion and DAV jointly, outlined extensively the activities of Communism throughout the nation, declaring that it is the avowed purpose of the Communists to obtain world domination through violent revolution, regardless of the amount of loss of life.

He told of the activities of many groups which he said were Communist, including Congress of Youth, American Civil Liberties Union, and the Utopian society. The speaker compared conditions here with those in Russia, declaring that in Russia there is no free speech, freedom of action or occupation, no freedom of worship and pictured a mass of people who are controlled by a comparatively few members of the Communist party.

"The Third Internationale," he said, "is planning mass murder on a tremendous scale, and yet most of us sit apathetically by and wait, while listening to their radical doctrines of revolution and overthrow of our government. If there are faults with our system of government, we are capable of correcting them by legal and peaceful means, without the interference from a foreign country with ambitions to overthrow our government."

As an entertainment feature, Frank Pierce sang two songs. Billie Nickle's dance orchestra played following the program for a public dance. Refreshments of soda pop, coffee and sandwiches were served. Commander Bert Casteln of the Legion and Jules Markel of the DAV presided.

The two presidential terms of Theodore Roosevelt were of different duration; Franklin Roosevelt's term will be different from either of Theodore's.

30 Years In Secret Service--Oh Yeah?

WILKIE'S RADIO CLAIMS AS TO HIS RECORD:

Also:

"In addition, since 1904, WITHOUT INTERMISSION, my life has been devoted to ACTIVE solution or study of crime, here and abroad."

Also:

The claim that he organized and directed an intelligence unit of CWA in Los Angeles, and obtained indictments of nine high-up officials.

When confronted with the exposure of his record, Wilkie then hedged, saying: "I never said I was 30 years in the Secret Service. I only said I was intimately connected with it."

SO THAT IS AGREED. MR. WILKIE WAS NOT IN THE SECRET SERVICE AS HE HAD CLAIMED.

WILKIE'S SWORN TESTIMONY AT HIS BANKRUPTCY HEARINGS:

1908 and 1909 in printing and engraving business. 1915, insurance agent. 1919, stock salesman. 1923, 1924, 1925, secretary chamber of commerce. 1927, private "Dick" in Hollywood. 1930-1931, private detective agency for several months. 1931, inventor and promoter of comb to straighten kinks out of negro hair. 1929 to 1934, had no business; was a writer but sold only one story. 1932-1934, radio entertainer.

NOT ONE WORD OF LAW ENFORCEMENT.

As to the CWA:

The office of Pierson Hall, U. S. District Attorney, states that Mr. Wilkie had nothing to do with the indictments of CWA officials.

Officers Leave With Prisoners; To See Big Game

Jules Turner, sentenced to San Quentin prison for grand theft and Pete Stump, sentenced to Ione reformatory, were taken north to prison today in custody of Deputy Sheriff James Musick.

Musick was officially accompanied by Chief Floyd Howard of Santa Ana, and Chief R. R. Hodgkinson of Newport Beach, and unofficially by Jerry Miller, of Santa Ana. Howard and Hodgkinson were selection by the sheriff's office as drivers, since three officers always make the prison trips.

En route home, the party will stop at Palo Alto for the Stanford-U. S. C. football game. Musick was a star fullback for the Trojans several years ago.

VOTERS HEAR DISCUSSION ON AMENDMENTS

measure, and advised a vote of "yes." The measure, he said, vests in the legislature the power, now existing in a civil service commission, to determine what offices the civil service shall cover. It is designed, he said, to do away with the spoils system of making political appointments.

Medical Controversy

A lively discussion of whether Amendments 9 and 17, the chiropractic and naturopath initiatives, would give drugless healers the full rights and privileges of physicians and surgeons, occurred when Dr. C. J. Ruley, of a Santa Ana health institute, spoke in favor of these amendments, and they were opposed by Dr. James Workman, chiropractor, and Dr. H. A. Johnston, Anaheim physician and surgeon.

Dr. Ruley, the first speaker, said that the chiropractic act of 1923 was a compromise between chiropractors and naturopaths, which had been undisturbed until this year, when the "spinal chiropractors" turned against the other group, and obtained a court decision which held that the naturopaths could not practice. This decision probably will be upheld by the higher courts, he said, so that it became necessary for the naturopaths to propose these initiatives, in order to get the right to practice.

He denied that Amendment 17, the naturopath measure, gave naturopaths the right to practice medicine and surgery. Naturopath schools, he said, would be required to give 3600 hours' instruction before minor surgery would be permitted. That, he said, is only 400 hours less than the medical schools offer. The present licensed naturopaths must go back to school before being licensed to practice minor surgery, he said. Dr. Workman, who is vice president of the Chiropractors' League of California, opposed both 9 and 17 and unconstitutional, and said both have had features. It is not a fight of the medical doctors against these measures, he said, but the medical doctors were justified in opposing the proposals. Use of the word "herbs" in the acts could be stretched a long way in meaning, he said, and the practice of obstetrics necessary blues practice of medicine.

The chiropractic act of 1923 was given to the chiropractors on their promise to confine their practice to chiropractic, he said. These new proposals are attempts, he said, to license a practice that is not chiropractic.

Through a misunderstanding, Dr. Johnston's appearance at the meeting had not been announced to the chairman in advance, arrangement having been made with another officer, so Dr. Johnston was limited to a very brief statement.

He read section 63 of Amendment 17, to show that under that act any drugless healer who could pay $25 for a license would have full right and privilege of practicing the entire field of medicine and surgery.

Dr. Ruley challenged that statement, and offered to write out a check of $25 if it could be proved. Dr. Johnston was not given time to reply, but advised the other to "write out your check."

Mrs. J. D. Campbell later explained the misunderstanding regarding the presence of three speakers and explained that the league did not plan on debating the amendments, merely hearing them explained.

Legal Matters

Fred Forgy, Santa Ana attorney, spoke in favor of Amendment 4, proposing to make the attorney-general chief law enforcement officer of the state, and creating a state constabulary or police force.

He also advocated Amendment 3, providing for the appointment of judges of supreme and appellate courts by a board consisting of the chief justice of the supreme court, the presiding justice of the appellate district, and the attorney-general. This plan could be adopted or rejected by each county as it desired, he said.

Amendment 5, permitting judges to comment to the jury on the evidence in criminal trials, and allowing the district attorney to comment on failure of the defendant to testify, also was advocated. Our juries, said Forgy, probably would observe and resent any misuse of such privileges.

Amendment 3, which permits entry of plea in criminal cases before justice courts or municipal courts, was a matter which involves no controversy, Forgy said.

Former District Attorney Z. B. West opposed all of these amendments. No. 3, regarding the appointment of judges, was a step toward centralizing power in Sacramento, and taking it away from the people, which he felt was wrong. It provides that only the name of the incumbent judge could appear on an election ballot, which would virtually perpetuate them in office, he said.

There are many things in favor of No. 4, the state police proposal, but rural counties, such as ours, there is a closer contact with law enforcement officers which is more satisfactory, West said.

West also objected to comment on evidence by judges, and reference by prosecutors to non-appearance of defendants. Comment on evidence by justices of the peace, in most instances, are not educated in law, would be most dangerous and prejudicial, he said. The right of prosecutors to comment on failure of defendants to testify is directly against the age-old legal principle that the defendant is innocent until proved guilty, he said; in many instances it would place the defendant in an unfair position.

No. 6, allowing plea in justice court, is substantially the same practice now in use, so is not necessary, he said.

County Superintendent of Schools Ray Adkinson favored Amendment 11, which provides for election of a state board of education, instead of the present appointment method; and appointment by this board of the state superintendent of schools, who is now an elective official. That, said Adkinson, would correspond with the local plan of electing school boards, who appoint superintendents.

Attorney Howard C. Cameron discussed Amendment 14, saying that it was unnecessary, as it duplicated parts of Amendment 3, relating to the appointment of judges.

Amendment 15, he said, would divide counties of a million population or more, into districts, each district to vote on its own superior judge. Los Angeles county would be the only county affected, but the idea is bad, he said, because every judge in a county is important to every citizen of that county.

Amendment 16, he said, referring to establishment of municipal courts in counties of more than 40,000 population, merely wipes out obsolete provisions from the constitution. He advised a "yes" vote.

A. W. Rutan, Santa Ana attorney, discussing Amendment 18, which he said is a "New Deal" in water questions, urged a vote of "no."

Fifty years of court decisions covering vested rights, riparian rights and other vital water matters would be set aside by this amendment, he said. The water companies, he said, were advising each stockholder to vote "no."

Mrs. J. D. Campbell, secretary of the league, explained No. 21, which would extend the right of eminent domain, to include the Metropolitan Water District and other similar districts, being designed to expedite the work of the former district. But while good in some respects, the proposal might be bad in others, she said, reminding her hearers of the Owens Valley situation after Los Angeles exercised eminent domain in obtaining that valley's water supply.

H. F. Kenny, candidate for the assembly, urged adoption of Amendment 21, the $24,000,000 relief bond proposal, saying that the need cannot be denied. This means must be taken, he said, to make the state eligible to share in federal relief allotments, which would increase the $24,000,000 to about $70,000,000 under a program to extend to next midsummer.

Lessons of Last Election To Be Subject of Talk

The subject, "Lessons of the Last Election," will be discussed by the Rev. Donald Gaylord, of Brea, over radio station KREG starting at 8:15 o'clock tonight in a program sponsored by the Christian Citizenship Council, it was announced today by Louis Allen, secretary-treasurer.

The address is one of a series sponsored by the Christian Citizenship Council, which is made up of a group of interested citizens who are opposing Amendment 2 to prevent the return of the old time saloon, favoring a "yes" vote on Amendment 13, the local option amendment, to place the control of liquor in the hands of the people, and to elect law enforcement officers in Orange county who will honestly administer the law in the interests of public decency.

NATIONAL SURVEY REVEALS OPTIMISTIC OUTLOOK FOR CALIFORNIA CITRUS GROWERS

With an increased buying power of the public in evidence throughout the nation, an optimistic outlook, not only for citrus growers but for other industries as well, was given by Paul S. Armstrong, general manager and T. H. Powell, sales manager of the California Fruit Growers exchange, at a meeting held at the Orange Union high school last night.

Both men have just returned from an eastern trip visiting Florida, Washington, D. C., and holding sales meetings in Seattle, Chicago and New York and New Orleans.

Record sales of Valencia oranges and lemons at good prices during the recent weeks were reported, Armstrong stating that returns to orange growers of California the past year were almost double those of 1933. Returns last year were 11 million dollars and this year 20 millions. Armstrong stated that the windup for the year was featured by an advance market and that while on November 1, 1933, about 2000 cars remained to be shipped through the exchange, this year would find all shipments made in the first in November, it is expected.

The 1935 orange crop will be a large one, the speaker pointed out, the estimated crop for the nation being 57 million boxes when that of 1934 was 47 million. Of this number he stated it is estimated that California valencias will be 21 million.

During the evening it was stated that sales made through the Orange County Fruit Exchange the first three days of the present week had pulled an average of three cents a box to sales for the entire year.

Armstrong said a survey of Sunkist salesmen from 56 markets in the United States and Canada and of many members of the trade indicated that the following seven factors influenced better prices this year on Valencias: (1) the marketing agreement; (2) national shortage of deciduous fruit; (3) hot weather; (4) better buying power and disposition for freer spending; (5) better quality fruit; (6) early clean-up of Florida fruit and California valencias last spring; (7) favorable rate of exchange with Canada and some other countries. With the strong and early finish taking place on Valencias, California valencias will get a much earlier start on a higher opening market, which is a big advantage in the face of the large crop here and in Florida, according to Powell.

"The Exchange is doing a big business with all elements of the trade, including the national and local chain groups in both private sale and auction markets," Powell said. He reported the trade pleased with the stabilized and dependable market as compared with the less reliable distribution from Florida.

The sales manager said that the sale of packed fruit exclusively in San Francisco and northwest markets had proved highly satisfactory in the opinion of trade and Exchange men, and that 11 per cent more packed fruit had been sold in those markets this year than packed and loose combined last year, with a much greater return to the grower.

Both Armstrong and Powell emphasized the need for adequate and regular supplies of navel oranges to competitive eastern markets during the Florida season in order to maintain trade and consumer interest in California fruit.

"With almost half our valencias sold during months in which Florida now also has fruit in the markets, this situation confronts valencia growers as well as navel growers," Armstrong said.

The study to appraise the merits of auction selling and all forms of fruit distribution in terminal markets, suggested to the research division of the Farm Credit Administration by the Exchange, will be made, it was announced.

CHURCH OF THE MESSIAH WILL HOLD MISSION FOR WOMEN TO OPEN SATURDAY

"It is seldom that the Episcopal church holds a mission apart from its regular penitential seasons of Advent and Lent," the Rev. W. J. Hatter, rector of the Church of the Messiah, Seventh and Bush streets, said today, "but this year, in keeping with the church-wide Endeavor movement suggested by the bishops and being observed throughout the nation, a three-day mission, opening with a great evening service on Sunday next at 7:30 p. m. and continued on the following Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, will be held."

"Services on these days will be as follows: 10 a. m., classes in Personal Religion, and at 7:30 p. m., Mission Services; also on Monday at 4 p. m., boys' and girls' service."

"The missioner is the Rev. William Cowan, dean of San Bernardino Convocation and the outstanding missioner of the diocese. His subject for the whole mission will be 'God's Purpose for You,' with the opening address, 'The Secret of Living Adequately or Abundantly.'"

"Dean Cowan is rector of Trinity church, Redlands, and a preacher of real merit, with much experience. He will gladly answer and 'Religion in Personal Life,' if presented in writing before being asked for replies. These services and classes are open to the public, and the rector of the local church will be delighted to welcome all to this mission."

"The theme for the period is 'Come Ye Yourselves Apart and Rest awhile,' an invitation very much needed in these days of disturbance and stress. If you respond you will find in these services a deep spirituality which will produce a quiet mind."

Santa Ana's newest women's dress shop will open its doors for the first time tomorrow when the Lora Lee store opens for the first time at 115 West Fourth street. B. M. Schuman will manage the establishment.

Both the exterior and interior of the store has been completely remodelled. The interior is attractively done with antique ivory fixtures with rose-colored carpets and gold drapes making an effective color scheme.

Women's dresses, coats and suits will be featured at the Lora Lee dress shop, Schuman said, and both misses' and women's sizes from 12 to 46 will be carried.

"We shall try to bring the latest fashions to Santa Ana direct from New York," Schuman said in announcing the opening, "and while our prices will be moderate, styles will be like those found in the most exclusive shops. We have confidence in the future of Santa Ana, and hope to become an integral part of the business life of this city."

The Lora Lee dress shop has taken a five-year lease on the store building on Fourth street, leasing the quarters from the owners, the Pacific States Saving and Loan company, whose office formerly was located there.

NEW PICTURES CRITICIZED BY P.-T. A. GROUP

Moving pictures recently released which were previewed by the California Congress of Parents and Teachers and on which recommendations were made, were announced today through Mrs. M. W. Hollingsworth, chairman of the motion picture committee of the Santa Ana Congress of Parents and Teachers. The recommendations follow:

"The Case of the Howling Dog," Warner production with Warren William, Mary Astor, Gordon Westcott, Grant Mitchell and Allen Jenkins, "A tense, complex, fast moving murder mystery with rather involved and sordid ethics. Adults interesting to mystery fans, 14-18 doubtful, 8-14 no."

"Elinor Norton," Fox production with Claire Trevor, Gilbert Roland, Henrietta Crosman, Hugh Williams and Norman Foster, "An unpleasant, unwholesome and stilted narrative from a garbled adaptation of a novel by Mary Roberts Rinehart that retains only the author's name and half the title. Adults tiresome, 8-18 no."

"Madam du Barry," Warner production with Dolores del Rio, Reginald Owen and Anita Louise, "Gorgeous costumes and magnificent sets decorate this elaborate historical comedy which leans decidedly towards farce. Adults entertaining, 14-18 too sophisticated, 8-14 no."

"Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch," Paramount production with Pauline Lord, W. C. Fields, ZaSu Pitts, Evelyn Venable and Kent Taylor, "Tears and laughter lie very close together in this homely, heart-warming household classic of 30 years ago, which recounts the struggles of the philosophic Mrs. Wiggs in her effort to provide for her poverty-stricken brood. Sympathetic direction and a fine cast make this delightful for family and junior matinee."

90,000 FAMILY SKELETONS LOCKED IN FILES OF S. A. BUSINESS MEN'S ASSOCIATION

Here in Santa Ana is a man who holds the key to a closet containing more than 90,000 family skeletons in Orange county, the majority of which are extremely respectable skeletons comprising the backbone of the social and business life of the county.

He is Phil M. Brown, secretary-manager of the Business Men's Association of Santa Ana, operating the credit bureau, and the "family skeletons" are unromantic credit reports reporting in a battery of files in the association offices, which occupy about 1000 square feet of floor space on the second floor of the Builders' Exchange building.

What is this organization that employs 10 persons and maintains a card file system that determines the credit standing of more than 90,000 individuals and firms in this trade territory?

"It is a cooperative organization, an outgrowth of the Merchants and Manufacturers' Association, incorporated in 1907 and supported by representative business and professional men of Santa Ana for the purpose of furnishing accurate and dependable information as to the credit responsibility of the customer who desires the privileges of a charge account," Brown explained.

"The bureau," he added, "which is literally a clearing house for information, through the unbiased recording of credit transactions and ledger experience of its members separates the good from the bad credit customer and enables the merchant and professional man to hold his credit losses to the minimum."

Each day the bureau obtains from official public records, newspapers and various other sources, all facts affecting the credit standing of the individuals, such as realty transfers, mortgages, suits, bankruptcies, changes of address, newcomers, marriages, births, deaths, divorces, judgments, new incorporations, items of law violation, social activities, etc. All these facts are recorded on the master card of the individual for future reference.

The extent of the use of credit reports is indicated by the fact Brown said that approximately 75 per cent of all credit transactions are based on credit reports issued by this central bureau.

There is something of a mystery to most persons as to the manner in which the bureau gets its information. Some of the facts are gathered from public records, but most of them come from sources of confidential information, mainly from the members of the bureau who at regular intervals submit a list of all their charge account customers.

The majority of credit applications are filled out at the member's place of business on his own, or a standardized questionnaire form furnished by the bureau regarding the social, business and family life of the applicant, employment, property owned, bank and trade reference, length of time in the community, prior residence, etc.

An applicant's antecedents are of vital importance to the bureau, Brown pointed out. "Where did you come from and when?" is one of the first questions asked of the newcomer. If the applicant has lived in other cities, the bureau gets his record from those places for as a member of the National Retail Credit association, it has at instant command more than 60,000,000 credit reports on file in more than 1200 cities throughout the entire United States. Wherever a person may go, his record is certain to follow him, even more surely than Mary's lamb, Brown said. If the record is good it will promptly establish him in the new community. If it is bad it will just as surely establish him as a bad credit risk.

When the report is compiled it is reported back to the inquiring member either verbally or in writing for his confidential use. The facts are absolutely secret except to members. Brown himself could double for the Sphinx as a conversationalist regarding this vital information.

He did venture to say, however, that the bureau never tells a member whether or not the applicant should be refused or given credit, but gives him a detailed report and lets him make his own decision.

Supply Facts Only
"Our business," Brown explained, "is to supply the facts, not opinions. The local credit bureau does not have any chance whatsoever to influence an individual's credit standing, for if it began coloring the facts it would soon be out of business. In the matter of credit every individual makes his own credit by the manner in which he pays his obligations and the bureau merely keeps that record which he has made for himself."

"One of the major factors in the extension of credit," Brown continued, "is the ability of the applicant to pay his bills promptly when due. In keeping with present day policy, the monthly charge account is due and payable on the tenth of the month following date of purchase unless other arrangements are made. In which event a strict adherence to store terms must prevail. If the customer desires to maintain a good credit record, the poor but honest day laborer who pays his bills promptly is often a better credit risk than the high-salaried or wealthy man."

Good or bad pay, it's a hundred to one that you are listed on the credit bureau, for its business is to learn all it can concerning everyone who does business on anything but a strictly cash basis. The average citizen probably would be surprised if he could see his own master card.

Although the credit bureau is primarily operated for the benefit of its members, a special effort is made to help the individual who has suffered financial misfortune, re-establish his credit standing by showing the actual status of his condition, which often prevents overbuying and adds him to keep his accounts paid promptly, thus protecting him as well as the member.

One of the questions often asked the bureau is how the records of individuals during the past years of depression will affect their future credit standing. Brown says that if he maintained a good credit reputation in the past and if he has, because of adverse circumstances, been a long time in liquidating old accounts, is out of debt and wants to re-establish himself, he can start off with the same confidence on the part of the bureau and his creditors that he had in the past.

"The bureau," Brown said, "is especially interested in preventing bankruptcies. Many debtors as a last resort and in order to relieve themselves of the responsibility incurred as a result of living beyond their means, seems to believe that bankruptcy is the only solution. While such procedure removes the legal liability, the moral obligation will always exist until the indebtedness has been paid in full. Bankruptcy always reflects unfavorably against the individual's credit record and the credit bureau in the past has, and will continue to, by a pooled account arrangement or other methods, aid the debtor in an honorable method of liquidating his indebtedness."

Certain business groups, Brown revealed, in recent years for some reason have become obsessed with the idea that nobody is entitled to credit under present day conditions.

"Our records," he said, "show that such a belief is not justified for in spite of depression and adverse circumstances in general a large number of our citizens owe less money than ever before. The fact is that organizations like the credit bureau are assisting thousands to re-establish their credit. Many who in former years have been guilty of overbuying and other causes which have jeopardized their credit, have realized their mistake, and have re-established their credit even though their income has been materially reduced."

"After all," Brown concluded, "it is the abuse of credit rather than the use of it that has caused any criticism toward this method of merchandising."

NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

-- News Behind the News --

WASHINGTON

By Paul Mallon

METAMORPHOSIS

The administration has been sliding imperceptibly out from under the restriction of production.

You could see it first in the recent saving AAA-er Davis made through the farm belt. He omitted the word "entailment" in all his talks and used the word "adjustment" instead. That may seem to be trivial, but you will get its importance when plans for next year's farm program are announced.

Even more significant is NRA's recent statement that henceforth it will soft pedal on production control devices for industry.

The final word was spoken when Reliance Hopkins asserted, concerning his farm-industry town program, that he "is not out of those scarcity boys."

IMPORTANCE

The significance behind these developments is that the era of contracting is just about over and the era of encouragement for expansion is about to begin. The New Dealers see no conflict of motives in this prospective change. They believe the holding-down program was essential for the period in which it was undertaken, but that now the situation calls for something else.

Now they are going to work it out in connection with the basis farm price policy is one of the perplexities yet to be solved. That also is the reason why the AAA-ers have only been dropping significant hints about it so far.

PROOF

There can be no doubt but that Messrs. Hopkins and Davis speak for the man higher up, and their straws cast to the winds were less emphatic than public assertion of the NRA board. It has aired the view that industry has been ignoring potential markets by keeping output at a low level. That statement implied a return to the old 5 and 10 cent theory that it is better to sell a lot of goods cheap than to sell few goods at higher prices.

To connect that idea with the words of Davis, "the genius of the American people will be content while underconsumption and unemployment are companions."

BUNGLE

The New Deal press agents shivered when they heard that the good Dr. Floyd Reeves had informed the radio hearings that the TVA favors government-owned radio.

They could imagine the statement which Senator Schell would issue about that. Fast foot-work saved the day for them, but Dr. Reeves' face has not yet resumed its natural color.

A quick call from an important quarter to TVA Chairman Morgan brought forth announcement that TVA sponsors no such idea.

TVA-ers explained Dr. Reeves' remarks had been read too hastily and that there was nothing more behind the incident than that.

PEACE

It would be embarrassing to mention the name of the Russian authority who advocates it, but it is no violation of his confidence to tell the interesting and private idea he has for preserving world peace. He says that, if the United States maintained a big army and the Soviets armed their man-power on a similar scale, they could require the world to keep peace. No other announcement would be required, except one that Russia and the United States intended to see that peace was maintained.

His view is based, of course, on the theory that the United States and Russia are the two largest nations which sincerely want peace, and that they have few conflicting interests.

MILK

The milk train is running off the track again and congress is asked to flag it down.

So much is clear as a result of the four-month study by the federal trade commission. Only $30,000 was allocated the commission for this job. Now it has concluded at least another $100,000 is needed.

It has come to this decision after unearthing a wide variety of abuses. Not all dairies are guilty, of course. But those that are infect the whole industry.

Combinations among distributors (sometimes even including farmer-cooperatives) to control the market are a chief source of trouble. A certain amount of "cooperation" with city health departments has been uncovered. Interlocking interests of ostensibly competing dairies is to be charged.

Investigators even whisper of some bribery of hotel chefs and apartment managers, payment of protection money and destruction by rivals of each other's bottles.

NOTES

One exporter writes the commerce department that he's trading tombstones and trumpets for German wines.

Secret ambition of Chester Davis, AAA-er, is to go back to running a country newspaper.

NEW YORK

By James McMullin

HOLE

New Deal prestige is seriously at stake in the oil crisis. Unless Administrator Ickes acts P. D. Q. to check the bootleg flow from East Texas federal oil control is headed for a most inglorious flop. The gasoline price war now traces directly to the futility of government efforts to clamp down on the hot oil boys. No business is done in the country has thumbed its nose at Washington so completely and with such complete impunity.

Everybody in the oil game knows this and leaders in other industries are beginning to notice it. You hear it said: "One little word from Ickes about what to do—and the oil men do as they damn please." New Deal critics wonder openly whether any of the administration's gestures towards industrial regulation amount to more than imposing balloons—to be punctured at will by individualists bold enough to try.

Informed New Yorkers believe that FDR is in for more grief than Job ever knew. If the real registration really sell themselves this idea. They insist that Mr. Ickes has plenty of powers he hasn't even tried to use and say he better get busy with the whip before he puts his boss in too deep a hole.

MERCURIES

The odd part of it is that the large oil companies have been more willing to play along with the government than big corporations in any other industry. Production restrictions and price stability were O. K. with them from the start. But for the past few months their volume has been increasingly undermined by oil bootleggers selling cheap and they're getting thoroughly fed up.

Only political considerations have prevented a drastic slash in the price of crude before now. The big fellows have been trying to stall along on the present price basis until after election. Nobody wants to lead off with a cut before then—because whichever company does so will be a shining target for political vituperation in Texas and elsewhere. But lately the pressure has become so intense that impatience is likely to overcome caution at any moment. Once any important company takes the plunge the others will hasten to play follow-the-leader.

Unless Mr. Ickes achieved a miracle insiders look for crude at 50 cents a barrel soon against the prevailing price of $1.05. Some even talk of 25-cent oil in the offing, which would drive many small producers—legitimate as well as bootleggers—out of business. Authorities generally agree that the only effective answer to the problem is to stop illegal production at the well-mouth. They can't see where any quantity of price-fixing decrees can help unless this is done. All that Ickes has to do is ride down one of the most powerful political elements in Texas with practically no support from the Department of Justice. It's suggested he had better page Hercules.

CLEAN-UP

New York conservatives were greatly pleased with the appointment of Edward Stettinius as a sort of personnel officer for the revised NRA. His previous service under General Johnson gives him a valuable background and he would be a key man in reshaping the administrative authority to fit industry's ideas.

Note that Stettinius is regularly employed by U. S. Steel—which loaned him for this particular job. That gives a clue to where he stands on self-government for industry. Big Steel isn't encouraging any developments that smack even remotely of more rigid control. Insiders rate it significant that the choice of Stettinius for the post was evidently approved by the administration.

Informed New Yorkers understand that Clay Williams—chairman of the NRA administrative board—and Stettinius are in full accord about what's to be done. A thorough housecleaning is in prospect. It's even possible that the entire NRA staff may be tried en masse—and then those members rehired whose outlook and abilities fit the new picture. No "radio" need apply.

Keen observers interpret this as one more indication that FDR is going to give business its head for a while but they also believe that business will have to express its appreciation in terms of greater activity and increased employment if it doesn't want the next congress on its neck like a ton of bricks.

COLLAPSE

The pathetic futility of the gold bloc conference at Brussels was due to a freezing fear of positive action—especially in the monetary line—which haunts the participating nations. Each is confronted by rising internal tension and any kind of spark might set off the powder barrel. Therefore the governments are trying to avoid all sparks.

The French desire to win England's favor by remaining on gold as long as possible was also a factor.

Financial insiders learn that Belgium seized the occasion to ask big brother France for another loan—which was refused. Belgium's financial condition is desperate and the cabinet may fall at any time. If it does it will probably take the gold standard with it.

Agitation for devaluation is also making rapid headway in Holland. The secession of either Holland or Belgium from the gold bloc would mean the collapse of France's monetary and political house of cards.

POSER

A New Yorker endowed with a large waist line was named not long ago to an important government post. He found that the service of a physician were among the prerequisites of his new office.

His friends tell the story that he summoned the doctor and asked him if he wanted to keep his job. The doctor said yes. "All right," said the official, "then it's up to you to take off this excess weight. But I'm warning you in advance that I won't diet and I haven't got time to exercise." The doctor is thinking of taking up another profession.

Wife and Daughter Beaten; Man Said Drunk Is Jailed

Arrested after allegedly beating his wife and daughter while intoxicated, Simon L. Guilford, 32, Costa Mesa, was booked at the county jail at 4 a. m. today for investigation of assault with a deadly weapon.

Guilford beat his wife so severely that she was unable to walk and had to be carried to a physician, according to a story told the arresting officer. Deputy Sheriff John Ryan and James Ragan. During the fight, Guilford knocked his wife down with a chair and inflicted a serious spine and hip injury, according to police reports. He is also reported to have bitten one of his daughters.

The defendant was hiding under a hedge when officers found him, it was said. Mrs. Guilford has been returned to her home but is reported to be in a serious condition.

IMPORTS, EXPORTS REVEAL INCREASES

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26.—(UP)—Imports and exports increased substantially during September as compared with August, the department of commerce reported today.

Imports totaled $131,650,000 compared with $119,515,000 in August, but were considerably below the September, 1933, figures of $146,643,000.

Department officials pointed out that the increase in imports was contrary to the usual seasonal trend during recent years when September imports have declined about 1 per cent below August totals.

First Shipment Of Calavos Goes East

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 26.—Some 75,000,000 of the entire population of the United States, instead of only 20,000,000 as during the past season, will be able to enjoy popular salads and cocktails featuring Calavos and avocados from California's newest major farm industry, during the next nine months. This "good news" is announced by the calavo growers of California as they shipped last night the first carload of the new season, to midwestern and eastern cities. This is the earliest that eastern and midwestern movement has ever begun. Many scores of additional carloads will be sent east this season. The Pacific coast will also receive considerable fruit. Quality of the calavos, or fruit from the better type varieties, is excellent this season, it is claimed.

Serves Old Term As He Waits Trial

James O. Ford, 27, of Long Beach, who has been bound over to the superior court on robbery charges, concluded a 38 day jail term yesterday on an old conviction for possession of intoxicating liquor. He was originally paroled on the liquor charge but was brought back to jail to serve the remainder of his sentence. The robbery charges involve the holdup of the Bristol Street Drug store.

Court Notes

His wife mistreated his two children by a former marriage, and complained to the neighbors that she was not enjoying the life she was accustomed to, Earl M. Trusheim of Costa Mesa, charged in a suit for divorce filed in superior court against Oily Trusheim. When chicken or duck was prepared for the family table, she gave the feet to the children and the head to him, but saved the rest of the fowl for canning, Trusheim alleged.

Suit for repossession of an automobile, or $400 as its equivalent, has been filed in superior court by the Universal Credit Company, against Leonard Anderson.

Viola Jane Jones, of Fullerton, has filed a petition in superior court to probate the will of the late Harry M. DeSilva, who died in Fullerton October 23, making her sole heir to his $3940 estate.

Joe Shields, charged with drunkenness, was committed to the county jail for 30 days when he appeared in police court yesterday.

Charged with drunkenness, Jake Bhajwansing, 63, Anaheim, was booked at the jail by Anaheim police yesterday to serve a 25-day sentence.

Sentenced to serve 30 days in jail for drunkenness, Ben Hayden, 59, Huntington Beach, was booked at the jail by Huntington Beach police yesterday.

Charged with violation of the city plumbing ordinance, G. J. Cocking pleaded guilty in police court yesterday, was given a 25 day suspended jail sentence and ordered to obtain permits for future work.

those physically incapacitated from earning a living; your exemption of all homes and ranches where the assessed value was less than $3000, and the declared intent to substitute a tax on stock transfers for the present sales tax.

Finally a platform was drawn. Creel said, "that gained general agreement, and as chairman of the Democratic convention I was able to state honestly and happily that your declaration of purpose was one to which every true Democrat, every true Progressive, could subscribe without loss of faith or sacrifice of principle."

"In immediate Epic, however, what do I find on the back page but your original plan," Creel's letter continues, "set forth exactly as it was in the first edition of 'I—Governor of California.'"

Creel then attacks the Sinclair plan detail by detail. "Let me say again," he says near the conclusion, "that I do not question your honesty, but you have a most amazing faculty of making yourself believe the things you want to believe."

"As an example, take your repeated statement that you can and will end poverty in California, and that you 'won't take more than one or two' of your four years to do it. This is an optimism carried to the point of delirium. Your dream of creating an 'economic island' alien and antagonistic to its immediate environment and to the rest of the country as well, is damned by every economist, yet you persist in it."

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 26.—Plans are now complete for the opening of the Los Angeles grand opera season Saturday evening, November 3, at Shrine auditorium, it was announced yesterday by officials of the opera company.

AGAIN HEADS GIRL SCOUTS

BOSTON, Oct. 26.—(UP)—Mrs. Frederick Eddy of New York City, today was re-elected president of the Girl Scouts of America for a fourth consecutive term at the 20th annual convention of the National council.

ected first and second vice presidents, respectively.

Conviction on the first charge would carry a penalty of from two to seven years imprisonment and conviction on the second is punishable by one to three years.

AN OPEN LETTER TO THE ORANGE COUNTY POLITICAL RING

You Asked for My References for the Job! Here Are a Few!

W. O. HART, et al.
Orange, California.
Dear Mr. Hart:—

October 14, 1934.

On September 28, you said editorially in the Orange Daily News: "Couldn't we, Mr. Wilkie, have a friendly word from the Chief of the U. S. Secret Service?" You were asking for "recommendations" of me. You hinted that my word as to my qualifications for Sheriff were insufficient. Now, Bill Hart, you asked for it! Your request for word from Chief of the Secret Service proves you are unaware that politics have been removed from the Secret Service—by just such methods as I will use to remove them from Orange County's Sheriff's office. Instant dismissal is the price in the Secret Service—as it will be in the Sheriff's office for anyone playing politics. So it is as impossible to obtain this "friendly word," or any other word for such a political use, as it will be impossible for politics to influence me while I am sheriff.

But, Mr. Hart; since one Secret Service agent, traveling in a sheriff's car and driven by a deputy sheriff did interest himself in politics on behalf of my opponent, it will interest you to know what the Chief of the Secret Service had to say about that, after he had demanded an immediate explanation from the offending agent. Here it is—and here are a few opinions from others:

THE CHIEF OF THE UNITED STATES SECRET SERVICE

Says to the former Chief: "I feel sure no agent will do or say anything that will interfere with your son's campaign. With every assurance of kindest regards."

Signed:

W. HERMAN MORAN.

THE FORMER CHIEF OF THE UNITED STATES SECRET SERVICE

Says: "Your experience in Europe and the United States qualifies you to direct and improve law enforcement in any capacity, with satisfaction to the people and more honors for yourself."

Signed:

JOHN E. WILKIE.

THE FORMER PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES

Says: "I can speak in the highest terms of your entire trustworthiness and of your ability. I know that you will give honest and efficient service."

Signed:

THEODORE ROOSEVELT.

TWO FORMER PRESIDENTS OF THE UNITED STATES

Says: (Thru their Adjutant Generals) that each does "repose special trust and confidence in the patriotism, valor and fidelity and abilities of Don Wilkie."

Signed:

CALVIN COOLIDGE.
HERBERT HOOVER.

THE FORMER PRESIDENT OF THE NATIONAL CITY BANK OF NEW YORK

Says: "You indicate that the genius I have at times said was reflected by your thinking and your initiative is about to take form."

Signed:

FRANK A. VANDERLIP.

The Father of Military Intelligence in the U. S. Army During the World War

Says: "I sincerely trust you are successful in your race for Sheriff not only for your sake, if you really want to tackle that position, but because Orange County sadly needs a sheriff who is not only capable but honest and patriotic."

Signed:

R. H. VAN DEMAN
Major General Ret.

THE FORMER PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES STEEL CORPORATION

Says: "Almost any man of large affairs can save huge sums of money and many hours of doubt if he will entrust to you the job of mining for and delivering the facts. They are the raw material of sound decisions. Without the work you do, many decisions are but the children of best judgment. Too often it is born of assembled guesswork."

Signed:

ELBERT H. GARY.

THE COMMANDANT OF THE ELEVENTH NAVAL DISTRICT AT SAN DIEGO

Says: "With an appreciative knowledge of your professional ability and experience I have no hesitancy in recommending your appointment in the highest rank available in Naval Intelligence Reserve; that of Lieutenant Commander. This in view of the high esteem in which you are held."

Signed:

By the direction of the Commandant—

C. M. HALL.

THE EDITOR OF THE SAN DIEGO TRIBUNE

Says: "I feel sure there is good reason for your believing there is a change needed in the sheriff's office in Orange County. If the electors select you as their next sheriff they will have secured an official of outstanding integrity and ability and one, of whom the community may justly be proud."

Signed:

FRANK B. GOODMAN.

THE PUBLISHER OF THE LONG BEACH PRESS-TELEGRAM

Says: "You have given me very faithful, able service. I treasure your friendship."

Signed:

W. F. PRISK.

THE FORMER PUBLISHER OF EVERYBODY'S MAGAZINE

Says: "You have the God-given talent to influence people to do that thing you most want them to do. Apply that talent to the needs of your office and you will go far."

Signed:

ERMAN J. RIDGEWAY.

THE DIRECTING HEAD OF SCOTLAND YARD, LONDON

Says: "You have an analytical mind, wide connections. You sense the mental processes of people. You are inherently a great detective."

Signed:

SIR BASIL THOMSON.

THE FORMER DIRECTOR OF UNITED STATES CIVIL WORKS ADMINISTRATION

for Los Angeles says: "I have every confidence in the ability and judgment of Captain Don Wilkie and I will back him to the hilt."

Signed:

DONALD CONNOLLY
Major U. S. Army.

THE SECRETARY, MUNICIPAL LEAGUE OF LOS ANGELES

Says: "Such a public officer as Captain Don Wilkie, who has so clear a conception of the New Deal as to be willing to incur the deadly enmity of crooked politicians by bringing their deeds into the open, is too rare a bird to sacrifice."

Signed:

ANTHONY PRATT.

THE PUBLISHER OF THE HUNTINGTON BEACH NEWS

Says: "In addition to his brilliant Government record I have seen many glowing recommendations of which any man would be pardonably proud. It is more the pity that a gentleman of the calibre, experience and moral fibre of Captain Don Wilkie cannot seek office in Orange County without being the target for political dirt."

Signed:

JAMES FARQUHAR.

State Judge Advocate, Disabled American Veterans of the World War

Says: "It is amusing to hear office holders trying to discredit Captain Don Wilkie. These criticised politicians would do well to stand at ease in reading Captain Wilkie's record during the World War when he was in charge of U. S. Naval Intelligence work in England and worked with Sir Basil Thomson of Scotland Yard."

Signed:

SYLVESTER HOFFMAN.

Publisher South Coast News, Laguna Beach

Says: "We might as well tell you that Captain Don Wilkie is as politically minded as a bumble bee recently arrived at a picnic under the trees and is generally so naive as to be honest both in act and statement. Now, just tell us how you would 'fix' a sheriff like that when a crook was in jail and it was politically desirable to get him out? Certainly Don Wilkie has not allied himself with groups or factions. But who does know how an honest and capable person should go about getting a public job? Still, in this age of crime and rackets, wouldn't it be a good idea to have such a man as Wilkie for sheriff, judging simply the capacity and integrity of the man? Wouldn't it be one chance in a thousand for the people to demonstrate their ability to pick the best man?"

Signed:

ARTHUR C. PETERSON.

The Former Chief of the New York office, United States Secret Service and former head of the White House detail, United States Secret Service and the Man in charge of the Port of New York, U. S. Naval Intelligence during the war, who was 16 years in U. S. Immigration service and Commander California Chapter Army and Navy Legion of Valors, and is a holder of U. S. Congressional Medal of Honor

Says: "Captain Don Wilkie, with whom it has been my good fortune to be associated for many years in United States government work, is without a doubt, one of the outstanding authorities on crime, crime detection and crime prevention in the United States today. He served with distinction in the United States Secret Service and other law enforcement branches of the government and has a splendid record of service in both peace and war-time federal service."

Signed:

RICHARD H. TAYLOR.

I shall hope, Editor Hart, et al., that you will prove true to the fine ethics of the newspaper profession and in the same columns used to throw dust in the eyes of the voters in a transparent attempt to keep the public mind off the record of YOUR candidate, now right the wrong of printing such an editorial as above referred to, by admitting that, in the face of such voluntary "recommendations" as these, I am exceptional timber for the office of Sheriff of Orange County.

There is no flaw in a record that has created such commendations as these, over a period of years, from such unquestionable authorities as these.

Here, Editor Hart—and all kindred skeptics, is my direct answer to the question you publicly asked. Compare such qualifications, guaranteed by such men of proven sound judgment and standing throughout the country, with the qualifications of your own candidate.

And lastly, hire your next sheriff on a basis of: "Which of these two men has the best qualifications," not on a basis of "Which of these two men will program with our political ring?"

Faithfully yours,

CAPTAIN DON WILKIE, Candidate for Sheriff of Orange County

SAN CLEMENTE HIGHWAY WORK GETS APPROVAL

SAN CLEMENTE, Oct. 26.—Director Earl Lee Kelly of the Department of Public Works today approved an agreement with the city of San Clemente providing for the improvement of El Camino Real with state gasoline tax funds. The agreement was ratified by the city council on September 21 and was forwarded to Director Kelly by Mayor A. T. Smith.

Under the terms of the agreement, Director Kelly agrees to advance $827.50 to the city for the improvement of El Camino Real from Avenida San Diego to the alley north of Avenida San Luis Rey. The agreement was prepared from a proposal submitted to the state by City Engineer W. A. Ayer which provides for the construction of curbs on the westerly side between these limits.

Director Kelly has delegated expenditure of the funds and supervision of the work to City Engineer Ayer. It is expected that the work will be undertaken immediately after plans and specifications have been submitted to and approved by the state.

The allocation of state gasoline tax funds is in accordance with legislation enacted in 1933 whereby by one-fourth cent of the gasoline tax is provided for expenditure within incorporated cities to aid municipalities in maintaining and improving streets comprising designated state highway routes.

A report of the committee on the vaudeville show given this month showed that more than $55 had been cleared.

The committee to have charge of serving refreshments to those entering the Halloween parade appointed includes Mrs. Sterlin M. Hood, Mrs. D. C. Munford, Mrs. L. E. Proud, Mrs. Stephen H. Inns and Mrs. A. D. Erwin.

CHINESE HERBS--The Road to Health

The action of Chinese herbs is entirely different from anything you have taken before, and entirely unfamiliar to most American people. They quietly and stealthily creep through the meshes of your tissues, while you are working and while you are sleeping. Like friendly spirits they steal into the dark corners of human anatomy to expel the hobgoblins of disease and like good fairies, they always leave happiness in their wake.

The healing power of Herbal Remedies has restored hundreds of sufferers to health and happiness. If you are suffering from any disease don't be skeptical; don't delay—a trial will convince you.

FEDERAL AGENT TALKS ON CRIME AND NARCOTICS

FULLERTON, Oct. 26.—C. R. Allen, of Fullerton, candidate for assembly on the Democratic ticket; S. B. Kaufman, incumbent, candidate for district attorney, and C. C. Bonner, connected with the narcotic division of the federal government, all spoke at the forum conducted by Charles Ruby Thursday night at the old auditorium of the high school.

Ruby announced that Raymond L. Haught, candidate for governor, will talk at the forum next Thursday. The meeting will be held in the new auditorium to accommodate the anticipated crowd.

Allen outlined the platform he is running on as one to place all people in the state in self-supporting positions. He criticized the gubernatorial campaign of the Republicans and declared that "somehow the party has become very religious, and is spending enough on distribution of literature and posting bill boards to greatly alleviate the suffering of underfed and destitute people."

Kaufman spoke briefly on his work as a district attorney, stating that he has been connected with the office for eight years. Outlining economies which he said had been practiced, Kaufman declared that during the year ending July, 1934, the office was operated for $5000 less than it had the year before. He said that in part the saving had been due to a salary cut for all in the office.

Bonner entertained the 400 forum guests with stories of crime and also with a piano recital at the close of the interesting talk.

Here and There in Local Sport

"Confidential" reports that filter out of the camps of big football teams are about as trustworthy as eye-of-election political propaganda, but this one is too good to keep. So I pass it along to the customers for what it's worth; nothing more.

Seeking, testing, shifting and rejecting, Howard H. Jones finally has arrived at a Trojan combination designed to surprise Stanford tomorrow afternoon.

And, they tell me, the "key man" in this new attack, although he may not start, is audacious Alvin Reboin, a first flight star, "Little Al" as they call him with heads a-waggin' in skepticism, has never gotten a buzz out of the S. C. coaching staff. The games he has played have been decisively won or hopelessly lost. He never has started a contest of any consequence since his freshman year when he was the fourth member of a Warburton-Clemens-Wolky's backfield. His varsity experience has been confined to the assignments of a blocking back, "assigned" to knock over 220-pound tackle.

Reboin has been in there trying to block ever since. Now, when all the others have failed, he may get his chance at his legitimate position in his senior season. I hear he is one of four quarterbacks being groomed to strike through the air as the Thundering Herd struck against Stanford's powerhouse team of '28. Reboin is a beautiful passer, an excellent ball-carrier and a fairly good kicker.

Don't be surprised if your radio announcer tells you Audacious Al is playing quarterback for the Trojans sometime during that brawl in Palo Alto.

"Why can't we have more tennis courts?" is a question which Santa Ana alone seems unable to answer.

Fullerton has a dozen or so. Orange has put in new ones. Now Anaheim announces two new courts at the high school, to be built with $1812 of SERRA funds. Fourteen persons will be employed.

Meanwhile, Santa Ana, the tennis capital of the county, struggles along with half-enough. The cramped situation may be alleviated some if the Frances Willard courts are illuminated for night play, as now seems likely. Service organizations, notably the Lions, are ready to help the Santa Ana Tennis club finance the proposition.

But night tennis will be costly, keep many out of action. The players will have to pay for the juice they use. The real cure will be about six brand new courts. How to get 'em is another matter.

AL REBOIN
After All These Years?

Reboin, 170-pounder from Santa Ana, Reboin probably will play quarterback against the Indians.

Soured on Bill Howard, doubtful of the inexperienced David Davis, leary of shifting "Inky" Wolky's, the dope is that H. H. Jones has gone back to Reboin as the last hope to revitalize Southern California's attack with "Cotton" Warburton.

Al Reboin is the real "forgotten man" of Trojan football. Po-

Ruth Free To Manage A's Declares Ruppert

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—(UP)—

Babe Ruth is free to accept any managerial job offered him and "I wouldn't stand in his way for as much as one second," Col. Jacob Ruppert, owner of the New York Yankees, told the United Press today.

Col. Ruppert was advised that Connie Mack, manager of the Philadelphia Athletics, had said in Honolulu that he (Mack) wanted Ruth as manager but "couldn't afford the price Col. Ruppert would ask."

"I don't know what Connie Mack was thinking of," Col. Ruppert said. "Of course he would have to get my consent but that wouldn't take more than a few minutes. Mind you, this applies only if the Babe was to go to another club as a manager. If another club wanted him as a player, not as a manager, they would have to buy him. But he can go as a manager, and I'd not stand in his way for a second."

Col. Ruppert was asked whether, provided Ruth were to be transferred as a manager, he would be permitted to serve as pinch-hitter at any time. The only thing is that he can't be a regular.

NO TRUTH TO REPORT SAYS SHIBE

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 26.—(UP)—John D. Shibe, vice president and secretary of the Philadelphia Athletics, denied reports published in New York that Connie Mack will resign as manager of the club and be succeeded by Babe Ruth before the 1935 season.

"There is absolutely nothing to the reports," Shibe told the United Press. "I don't know how they got started. If there was a vestige of truth in them, I would have been informed. Nothing like that ever was mentioned before Connie sailed for the Orient."

JOE CRONIN, Sold For Record Price, Named Manager Of Red Sox

BOSTON, Oct. 26.—(UP)—

Thomas Yawkey, 31-year-old owner of the Boston Red Sox, who inherited $7,000,000 from his parents, today put through the biggest cash deal in baseball history to make Joe Cronin, manager of the Washington Senators, the player-manager of the rebuilt Red Sox.

The surprise deal, in which "far in excess of $139,000" was paid for the newly-wedded Washington shortstop, marked a new high in the campaign of free spending through which the youthful millionaire hopes to bring an American league pennant to Boston.

Cronin, now honeymooning in his home city of San Francisco with the adopted daughter of Clark Griffith, chief owner of the Senators, will succeed Stanley (Bucky) Harris, who once managed the Senators himself.

In announcing the acquisition of Cronin in a deal which also sent Lyn Lary, Red Sox shortstop, to Washington, General Manager Eddie Collins of the Sox said he "couldn't say he was" satisfied with the one-year management of Harris.

Cronin, who was given a five-year contract, will be paid a salary substantially larger than that which he received from the Senators, reportedly $25,000 a year.

The previous record price for a baseball player was the $139,000 which the New York Yankees paid the Red Sox for Babe Ruth.

Harris said the Cronin trade "comes as pretty much of a shock to me."

"I lose my job and that isn't a very pleasant thing these days," Harris said, adding he had no knowledge of the situation until the formal announcement was made by Griffith.

In announcing the acquisition of Cronin in a deal which also sent Lyn Lary, Red Sox shortstop, to Washington, General Manager Eddie Collins of the Sox said he "couldn't say he was" satisfied with the one-year management of Harris.

Cronin, who was given a five-year contract, will be paid a salary substantially larger than that which he received from the Senators, reportedly $25,000 a year.

The previous record price for a baseball player was the $139,000 which the New York Yankees paid the Red Sox for Babe Ruth.

Harris said the Cronin trade "comes as pretty much of a shock to me."

"I lose my job and that isn't a very pleasant thing these days," Harris said, adding he had no knowledge of the situation until the formal announcement was made by Griffith.

This Fan Asks For Seats Behind Posts

SANTA CLARA, Oct. 26.—

Please reserve two seats for me directly behind the goal posts.

That isn't fiction. It is a true request received from a football fan by J. F. "Sam" Dunne, Santa Clara's general manager who is receiving reservation applications for the St. Mary-Santa Clara football game, November 18.

What is more the fan in question definitely designated the section in which such goal post seats might be found in Kezar stadium. "What a relief," said Dunne. "Most of these fellows want 50-yard line seats."

ROCKEY WHIPS SAUCEDO, VENNEY SHADES BALTZ

ANAHEIM'S PAUL SAUCEDO went back to the preliminaries today, sadder and wiser after a single experience in the "big time."

Making his debut as a main eventer at the Orange County Athletic club last night, Saucedo was decisively outpointed by Jack Rocky of Long Beach, uncrowned champion of the amateur light-

Saucedo, recently rated by the Southern Pacific A. A. U. as the No. 1 lightweight in Southern California amateur ranks, didn't budge in the same ring with the more experienced Rocky. Jack sprayed the Anaheim Mexican with volleys of lefts and rights, captured every round and the unanimous vote of Referee Jack McDonald and two judges.

The surprise of the evening was furnished in the first part of the double main event when Jo-Jo Venney shaded Walter Baltz in a tremely close, five-round battle. Venney won but many of the fans thought otherwise, and expressed their opinion in the customary manner.

Frank Oberlin of Santa Ana junior college, knocked down in the third round, got a lucky decision over Frank Pfau in the semi-final. Oberlin, a fine little sportsman, said after the fight he thought Pfau won, which he did.

Ray Oda kayoted Roy Sala in the first minute of a one-sided special. Down himself in the first, Tino Munoz got up to stop Leo Gibbs, colored, in the third round of a slugfest. Art Anderson beat Babe Rosales, scoring a nine-count knockdown. Miller Fonseca shaded Eddie Martinez in a colorless exhibition. Paul Brown out-boxed Pete Luzo. Jesse Sharkey whipped Jack Silvers in one of the best fights of the show. They've been rematched for next week.

Jack Taylor won from Hal Anderson and Owen Williams nosed out Frank Farrell, both decisions being unpopular.

Mrs. Drumm Wins Medal Play Golf

Profiting by an additional one-stroke handicap, Mrs. F. C. Drumm nosed out Mrs. Oeman Pixley in a medal play golf event at the Santa Ana Country club yesterday. Mrs. Drumm had 100-18-42 to Mrs. Pixley's 100-17-83. Class B winners: Mrs. Ludy Schaffer, 110-22-88, first; Miss Nan Mead, 121-24-97, second.

Santa Clara, which shares with Stanford the record of being unbeaten thus far on the coast, takes on a new opponent in Fresno State.

St. Mary's, University of San Francisco and College of Pacific have no games booked for the week-end.

Cellar Champs Collide

The two Washington eleven's head the conference at present with two victories each. At the other end of the scale are Idaho and Montana, each with two defeats. They meet Saturday to decide which stays in the cellar.

University of Oregon and Loyola are engaging in inter-sectional combats. The Webtoons are in Salt Lake City to meet a Utah ensemble that has not yet tasted defeat. Loyola is at home, meeting Texas Tech tonight.

San Francisco's plans for holding an international exposition in 1938 have developed to the point where projected sites are being named. The fair will commemorate the completion of the two bridges across San Francisco bay—the two longest spans in the world. Upper site adjoins Yerba Buena Island and the San Francisco-Oakland bridge, on an island built up from shallow water. Lower site—adjoining the Golden Gate bridge—utilizes ground of the Presidio, military capital of the west. Part of this site was used for the Panama-Pacific International Exposition in 1915.

When Dixon finds employment and a home, five other children will come from the east to join the family.

Party Lines Fall in Election

It's a hot political campaign in California, where Republican Nominee Merriam and Democratic Nominee Sinclair seek the governorship. Party lines have fallen and in Pasadena, Sinclair's home town, Democrats established a "Merriam for Governor Democrat Headquarters." Another candidate, Ray Haight, running on the Commonwealth ticket, seeks votes of members of both parties dissatisfied with "regular" candidates.

When Death Came Swiftly to Assassin of King

A saber had just flashed down, the hilt plainly visible in the cavalryman's hand, and the assassin of King Alexander I of Yugo-Slavia was reeling to his death, arms upflung futilely to guard his head, when the cameraman snapped this picture. Inside the royal car, shown halted in a Marseilles street, the king had slumped back, dying, in the rear seat, beside Foreign Minister Louis Barthou of France, also mortally wounded. At the right can be seen the crowd, straining at the rope barriers which held them back from the route of the king's car.

HORTON TAKES OVER COMPLETE VICTOR LINE

The entire new 1935 line of RCA-Victor radio receivers, combination receivers and phonographs and records has been taken over by the J. C. Horton Furniture company, Sixth and Main streets, where the modern, high-class receivers now are on display. It was announced today.

Bob White, who has been with Horton's for many years, has been made manager of the radio department and will welcome visitors and friends at the store who wish to inspect the most modern development in the field of radio and music reproduction instruments.

A feature of the 1935 line is a "Magic Radio Brain" which, with almost human intelligence, selects and amplifies distant, foreign stations while rejecting interference and noise. This new development has been incorporated into the new RCA Victor Globetrotter radio instruments.

The term "Magic Brain" was coined by radio engineers to describe the almost uncanny electrical and mechanical functions in the receivers. Unwanted signals and interference is filtered out. Desired signals are strengthened, making it possible to receive more stations accurately.

Tuning operations have been simplified. Not content with designing the now universally used full-vision airplane dial, the RCA-Victor engineers have designed an ingenious band spreader tuning aid which in effect opens up the congested shortwave international bands so that they can be tuned in with ease. Then there is a micro-accurate tuning transmission which eliminates all lost motion.

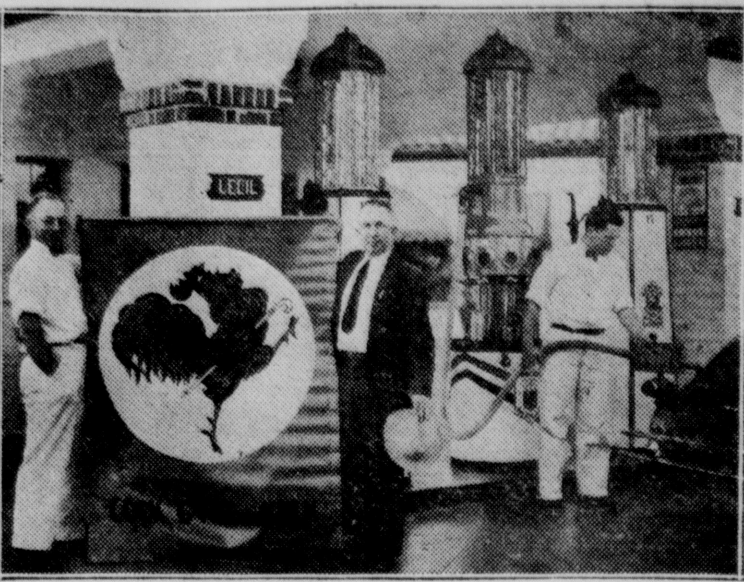

In addition to many mechanical improvements, the "Magic Brain," in the 8, 10 and 12-tube Globetrotters, opens up an intriguing new field of extra long-wave reception at the new "Q" band for the first time. Of the many services in the "X" band, perhaps the most interesting is a new weather forecast and reporting service, designed for the use of airways, which is sent out daily by twenty-eight government stations at regular four-hour intervals.

PROGRAM HELD BY CHRISTIAN CHURCH CLASS

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Oct. 26.—The Loyal Women's class of the Christian church met Thursday at the home of the president, Mrs. M. A. Turner, Geneva and Hill streets. Mrs. Seymour Wilson was co-hostess with Mrs. Turner. Forty-three members and guests were present.

Mrs. John Flaws led the devotionals. Mrs. Martha Hurst played a piano solo. Mrs. Edna Herron sang "O Heart of Mine" and "Son of Mine" accompanied by Mrs. Amy Worthy; Mrs. Margaret Pryor read "Mrs. Candid Entertains the Aid" and one of Lawrence Dunbar's poems; Mrs. Lawrence Worthy and son, Norman, played two duets, "Cecelia" and "Hungarian Melody."

Following a short business meeting a social hour was enjoyed and refreshments served to the following: Mrs. Lydia Robinson, Mrs. T. S. Africa, Mrs. Lavina Crane, Mrs. Piper, Mrs. Perle Elliot, Mrs. May Stewart, Mrs. Cameron, Mrs. J. Morse, Mrs. McClung, Mrs. A. J. ## LANGLEY GIVES NEW SIGNS TO ALL STATIONS

The colorful new banners being distributed by Roy Langley of the Langley Oil company to those service stations and garages of Santa Ana and vicinity which feature Hancock gasolines, are creating a great deal of favorable comment, and Langley is very "cocky" about the enthusiastic reception accorded the banners.

Each banner features the striking Hancock "Cock o' the Walk" in vivid orange and black against a white and orange background. Every dealer handling Hancock gasolines will be supplied with one of the banners within a few days, according to Langley, and motorists will therefore be enabled to instantly recognize those stations and garages which feature Hancock Five-Point and Hancock gasolines, no matter where they travel in California.

As a tie-in with the newspaper advertising appearing in The Register which features the now famous Hancock suncock, these banners are considered of unusual value, and Langley finds all dealers eager to display the striking emblem.

PAN AMERICAN ROAD

Slow but steady progress is being made on the Pan American Highway from Laredo to Mexico City. Crews are facing a gigantic problem in the region between Jacala and Tamazunchale, where over two million cubic meters of mountainside will have to be excavated to open the highway to standard width, according to reports received by the National Automobile club from the Asciacion Mexicana.

ON 101 HIGHWAY, BETWEEN SANTA ANA AND ANAHEIM

Big Program Arranged For Armistice Day Celebration

NAVY BENEFITS TOLD LIONS BY LT. BEAUMONT

The United States navy is worth its investment through the wonderful trade and scientific training and the physical education it provides the personnel, according to Lieut. Arthur Beaumont, fleet artist, in an address yesterday noon before the Santa Ana Lions club at James cafe.

Yesterday's program featured Navy Day, which is observed throughout the nation on Oct. 27, and displayed on the walls were several Navy Day posters created by Beaumont, who is the official artist of the United States fleet and whose paintings and sketches have attracted nation-wide attention.

"No symbol of the nation can compare with the majesty of the fleet," Lieut. Beaumont declared. "It is an index to the nation's character and well worth the investment required."

Navy Aid

The speaker pointed out that the navy is not looking for trouble, but is prepared when trouble comes. He told of the service rendered by the navy during the Long Beach earthquake and other emergencies, including the flight of a naval ambulance plane over many miles of sea to save the life of a man stricken with appendicitis while cruising in the South Pacific on a small yacht. Many of the scientific devices which make ocean travel safe were developed through navy experimentation, he said.

W. K. Hillyard was program chairman and introduced the speaker, who was accompanied by Captain Geo. T. Plummer of New Bedford, Mass., who was one of those present at the raising of the submarine S-51, which sank in 1926, taking the lives of 34 men of the 37 on board, during maneuvers in the Atlantic.

Glenn Tidball gave a brief history of the Orange county sheriff's office since organization of Orange county in 1889, and paid tribute to the modern efficient peace force maintained by Sheriff Logan Jackson, Lion Reg Taylor of Anaheim entertained with a group of vocal numbers, accompanied on the piano by Mrs. Stewart.

New members of the club introduced at yesterday's meeting were Ira Kroese and Frank Pierce.

The club voted to assume the duty of carrying on the Red Cross roll call in the downtown portion of the city.

Chairman Rolla R. Hays Jr., of the civic affairs committee reported on the non-partisan "get out the vote" campaign, saying that it has received the support of all civic and service organizations of the community and the aim is to get everybody to vote on November 6 so that the largest vote in history may be recorded by the city of Santa Ana.

"It is absolutely and strictly non-partisan in character," Hays declared. "We do not care how people vote—that is their own business—but we are concerned that every qualified voter go to the polls and cast his ballot so that the decisions, whatever they may be, shall reflect the majority sentiment of the city."

JAYCEE OFFERS FULL GROUP OF MUSIC COURSES

"Almost 200 of the 637 students in the Santa Ana junior college are enrolled in the 15 music courses and every course required in any college for a music major is offered here," it was declared today by Miss Myrtle Martin, head of the music department.

The three instructors who supervise music courses have more students than at any previous time, Miss Martin said. Subjects now offered include band and orchestra, beginning piano, intermediate piano, beginning and advanced voice, women's and men's chorus, A capella choir, music history and appreciation, men's octet and women's octet.

Those on the music faculty are Miss Martin, a former teacher at El Centro high school and junior college and Ingwood high school, who received her instruction at Montana university, Cumnuck School of Music, and U. C. L. A.; Leland Auer, graduate of U. S. C. and instructor there and at Woodbury college; and Alan Revell, who was trained at U. S. C. College of Preceptors, of Hastings, England, Royal College of Music, London, and Pomona college, and studied under John Ahrens, Thilo Becker, Horatio Cogswell and Carolyn Alchin.

EDUCATOR DECLARES FREE DISCUSSION OF ALL CURRENT PROBLEMS NEEDED IN SCHOOLS

"Open minded and free discussion of all vigorous and current problems in high schools and colleges is necessary in preparing the students to be good citizens," Dr. W. H. Burton declared last night in the fourth of a series of lectures on educational procedure conducted in the Willard auditorium by the adult education department of the Santa Ana schools.

Dr. Burton, illustrating his points with concrete examples, declared that present day problems, including socialism, communism, divorce, and other delicate problems were more important than the usual memorizing in the production of good citizens by our schools. He emphasized that he did not mean that those subjects should be taught, but that they should be given an unbiased discussion.

The speaker said that the community does, and should decide what general courses may be included in the curriculum, but that the method of teaching them must be left to trained technicians.

Other subjects listed by Dr. Burton for the adequate training for citizenship included: discussion of problems of trade and transportation as they relate to our standard of living, the good and evil of municipal ownership of public utilities, and whether the chain store system is in keeping with the trend for the distribution of goods. He stated also that the students should be shown that war is not fought for an ideal, but for some reason that affects our economic condition.

A quarter hour of musical entertainment preceded the speaker, featuring popular selections played on guitars and banjos by a group of SERRA musicians.

CAST NAMED FOR AMERICAN FOLK DRAMA

"Green Grow the Lillacs," American folk drama by Lynn Riggs which is said to have missed the 1931 Pulitzer prize award by one vote, will open the Santa Ana Community Players' new season November 24 and 25.

The cast of 35, completed this week, was announced today by Gladys Simpson Shafer, accomplished Players' director who will supervise productions of the current season.

Leading roles have been won by Edith Ellis, last seen as feminine star in "Berkeley Square," and J. Leslie Steffensen, who won substantial honors in "Bill of Divorcement."

Departing from sophisticated comedy and romantic drama, the Players have chosen an American folk vehicle. Laid in Oklahoma in 1900 when that section was Indian territory and its statehood still nebulous, the play weaves its story out of ranches and cowboys and charivaris. Six scenes replace the customary three acts, and musical interludes devoted to native folk tunes complete a play indigenous in every particular.

That the title of the play is far from incongruous was explained by Mrs. Shafer, who pointed out that "Green Grow the Lillacs" was the title of an American song popular among our soldiers at the time of the war in Mexico. So widely sung was this song, she explained, that the Mexicans came to refer to the American men as "Green Growers" later contracted to "gringos."

The play, to be presented in the Ebelle clubhouse, has been cast as follows:

Curley McClain, J. Leslie Steffensen; Aunt Eller Murphy, Gertrude Horn; Laurey Williams, Edith Ellis; Jester Fry, Frederick Elliott; Annie Carnes, Florence Brownridge; A Pedler, Robert White; Old Man Peck, Wayne Holt; Cord Elam, Joseph A. Peterson;

A Cowboy, Vincent Elliott; Another Cowboy, Dick Ewert; An Old Farmer, Victor Morrison; A Young Farmer, Glenn Shaw; Guitar Player, Lyle Anderson; Other Farmers, Robert Northcross, Jack Bergen, Ritchie Bassett, Orval Whisenand and Max Thiede; Cowboys, Crawford Nalle, Victor Ross, John Straile, Clinton Campbell, Charles Wollaston, Jerry Hall, Alvin Rohre and Lyle Anderson;

Girls, Cecile Froas Willis, June Burns, Lucille Robinson, Virginia Anderson, Ruth Spears, Naomi Sands, Florine Pollock and Eulabelle Smith.

The part of "Marthy" is still uncast.

4 SANTA ANANS ARE INCLUDED IN WHO'S WHO

Who's Who, that roster of prominent persons in the United States which has grown from a publication of 827 pages since the initial volume in 1899, to 2623 pages in the current Volume 18, has just been issued for 1931-35, and is of special interest to Santa Anans by reason of the inclusion in its pages of four Santa Ana names. These four citizens thus given world-wide prominence are, in alphabetical order as they appear in the book, Congressman Samuel LaPorte Collins, Angus J. Cruickshank, banker; Colonel S. H. Finley, civil engineer, and Miss Helen H. Santmyer, author.

Colonel Finley's name has appeared in previous volumes of "Who's Who," but the current one is the first in which names of the other three local persons have appeared.

Short histories of each of the four are given, whereby it appears that Samuel LaPorte Collins, for instance, was born in Fortville, Ind. He was admitted to the bar in California and served Orange county as assistant district attorney and district attorney before election to the 73rd United States Congress from the 19th California district. It tells of his service with the United States army on the Mexican border and with the A. E. F. in 1917 and 1918. He is also listed as a Republican, a member of the Christian church, a Mason and an Elk.

Colonel S. H. Finley's birthplace was Lincoln county, Mo. He was educated at Monmouth College, Ill., where he took his A. B. degree in 1886 and his A. M. degree in 1889, in the meantime beginning the practice of his profession as civil engineer in Santa Ana in 1886. As Santa Ana city engineer he installed the original municipal water system in 1891 to 1897. Following two years as member of the board of trustees, he was made mayor of Santa Ana. He also served as engineer on the Orange County Highway commission and as member of the county board of supervisors from 1916 to 1928. His chief bid for fame, however, came with his work in organizing the Metropolitan Water district of Southern California, in which he also served as director and as secretary. His military career includes membership in California National Guard from 1890 to 1908; a captaincy in the California Volunteers in the Spanish-American war, and a colonelcy in the seventh regiment, California National Guard, 1904 to 1908.

He was appointed by Governor Young on the California commission to adjust Colorado river water claims with Arizona and Nevada. Colonel Finley's church, political and club affiliations include Presbyterian church, the Democratic party, Rotary club, and Spanish War Veterans.

Born in Central City, Iowa, Angus J. Cruickshank was educated in the schools of his native city, and trained in the banking business under his father, Miles McInnes Cruickshank. He was first connected with the Gladbrook National bank, Gladbrook, Iowa, where he came to California in 1888, where he continued his banking associations with his father. Married to Josephine M. White in San Jose in 1898, he has since made Santa Ana his home, serving as president of First National bank since 1916, and more recently chairman of the board of directors.

Helen Hooven Santmyer, whose home is 2332 North Flower street, was born in Cincinnati, Ohio, and educated at Wellesley, where she took her A. B. degree in 1918. She received her B. Litt. degree at Oxford university in 1928. In the meantime she had served for three years as a member of the editorial staff of Scribner's magazine, leaving that to go to the English literature department of Wellesley as a member of the staff. She is a Republican and a Presbyterian, and her literary work included the publication of two novels, "Herbs and Apples," in 1925, and "The Pierce Dispute," in 1929.

BEACH CITY TO BE HOST FOR ANNUAL AFFAIR

Announcement of completion of contracts for entertainment which will insure a varied program of interest throughout the day for the Orange County Armistice Day celebration at Huntington Beach November 12 was made today by members of the committee in charge of the annual event.

The parade which will start at 11 a. m. is expected to eclipse all previous Armistice Day parades in Orange county. It will be led by contingents from the army and navy and following the military section will be colorful marching units from veteran organizations and patriotic societies, about 60 beautiful floats pertaining to the theme of "Islands of Americanism" and an equestrian section which will include the best horses and equipment in Southern California.

A beautiful pageant is assured by the keen competition among the various participating organizations which is stimulated by the many trophies being offered to those having the most outstanding entries in the various classifications.

The program of entertainment for the day includes a football game between the Huntington Beach High school team and the Brea-Olinda Union High school team. These teams, according to sport authorities, are very evenly matched and will each enter the game with a determination to win. There will be a rodeo in the afternoon at which nationally famous horses and riders will perform for the entertainment of those interested in this sport.

A varied program of free vaudeville will be shown from a stage to be erected in a down town location and an amusement company will move into Huntington Beach during the week preceding Armistice Day and will provide continuous entertainment. Their show will include several riding devices and a complete midway with a good variety of shows and attractions.

WRITER LAUDS REGULATION OF S. A. TRAFFIC

Traffic congestion is not a problem confined to Santa Ana, as is shown by a clipping from the Honolulu Advertiser, which criticizes the police there for permitting laxity in traffic rules and which praises Santa Ana for avoiding this congestion.

After picturing the confusion in Honolulu streets and poking fun at the lackadaisical attitude of the police, the writer to the Honolulu paper, who signed "J. O. E.," concludes as follows:

"One small though ultra-modern town in Southern California, Santa Ana, might easily stand for an example. When the bell rings, everybody either stops or goes automatically. Then it is perfectly safe for pedestrians to cross without further gazing right or left, up or down. A smart, clean-looking officer stands on the corner, but he is not called upon to stand in the middle of the street and wave his arms like the wings of a Dutch windmill. Santa Ana is a town of about 35,000, and especially on week-ends it is considerably more than that. It is worth seeing.

"I am sure Honolulu could be made a safe place for pedestrians. Where there's a will, there's a way. Let the living conditions parallel your flawless climate; it might pay."

BREA, Oct. 26.—The Orange county zone convention, a part of the annual Sunday school convention of the Nazarene church in the Southern California district, was held at the Brea church of the Nazarene this week, with a morning, afternoon and evening session and a basket dinner served at noon. ### Sea Voyage Friendship Will Be Renewed in Week-end Visit

A friendship which had its inception on the summer trip which Mrs. E. W. Spruance and her young daughter Eloise, enjoyed to Pago Pago in the Samoan Islands and thence to Australia, will be renewed tomorrow when Mrs. Spruance leaves by airplane for a week-end visit to the very edges of the government settlement.

Mrs. Spruance and Miss Eloise sailed in the early summer for Pago Pago where they were guests of Lieutenant Commander and Mrs. H. C. Lowry. They spent a most interesting summer in what is really the winter season in that island region south of the equator. Pago Pago is a naval station with only about a hundred white residents, and the primitive native life sweeps to the very edges of the government settlement.

This native life was vastly interesting to the Santa Anans, who visited the little villages, practically all of which were built with their native huts surrounding small churches, representing Mormon and Catholic faiths and London Missionary society.

The advent twice each month of ships touching the island group and the occasional arrival of a naval vessel are the high lights of interest in the islands, declared Mrs. Spruance. She and her daughter made one trip to an adjoining group of American island possessions on the little vessel that carries mail to the group and returns with copra.

As their visit drew to a close they sailed on the S. S. Mariposa for Australia, spending a week in Sidney and Melbourne and returning to the United States on the same vessel, with a few hours' stop at Pago Pago with their friends. It was during their five weeks aboard the Mariposa that they formed the friendship with Mrs. Loken, completing a world tour on that ship.

CLUB FEDERATION SPEAKER ASSAILS COMMUNISM GROWTH

Sounding the alarm of the growth of communism in the United States, but qualifying this with a distinctly encouraging note by asserting that concerted action of women in general could work wonders in checking it, Andrae B. Nordskog, writer, publisher and public speaker of international repute, yesterday afternoon addressed members of Orange County federation of Women's Clubs at their mid-year convention in Santa Ana Ebell clubhouse.

This address was the climax of a program presided over by Mrs. Casey C. Bonebrake of Orange, county president. The morning session, opening with salute to the flag, led by Mrs. Walter Ross, chairman of American citizenship; invocation by the Rev. Perry Frederick Schrock, and welcome to the hostess club, Santa Ana Ebell society, voiced by the president, Mrs. Charles V. Davis, featured the Rev. Russell Stroup of Balboa as speaker.

Morning Address "Peace" was the subject which the Rev. Mr. Stroup chose for his stirring address, which was linked appropriately with the conference theme, "Building for Tomorrow."

Following this were various reports, including those of Mrs. J. T. McInnis on law observance; Mrs. R. C. Harris, junior membership; Mrs. L. R. Daughenbaugh, club welfare; Mrs. G. E. Dunham, international relations; and Mrs. W. A. West, co-operation with war veterans.

Of business importance was the selection of a nominating committee, Mesdames Jacob Bohlander, C. A. Neighbors, R. D. Temple, Baldwin and Reuben Day, and the change in the constitution providing that club officers will be elected for a two-year term and not be eligible for re-election.

Mrs. Benjamin F. Warner, Southern district president, outlined some of the features in store for clubwomen at the district convention, October 30, 31 and November 1, in Arrowhead Lodge, Lake Arrowhead. "Organized Opportunity" will be the convention theme, and among innovations will be a panel discussion to which various women's organizations, including Business and Professional Women's club, will contribute. The chief social feature, the officers' banquet, will be on the "Century of Progress" theme.

Musical phases of the morning program introduced Irma Huffman May, whose clear and lovely soprano voice and pleasing personality were warmly appreciated by the clubwomen when she sang three light opera numbers, "Indian Love Call," from "Rose Marie"; "Iris" and "Will You Remember" from "Maytime." Responding to the enthusiasm of her audience, she sang a gay little number, "April Fool." Miss Carolyn Haughton was her accompanist.

Ebell Current Events section had planned the mid-day luncheon and Mrs. Archibald Edwards introduced program features. Tables were gay with flowers, an unusually lovely basket gracing the officers' table where Mrs. Bonebrake presided.

Juniors on Program Santa Ana Junior Ebell members provided the short program which delighted clubwomen. Miss June Arnold opened the entertainment with a clever original monologue, a diverting little portrayal of a southern belle and her guests. An encore was demanded, and again she gave an original sketch, "How to Bring Up Your Child," with its amusing picture of how not to do things. Miss Florence Pollock, soprano, and Miss Josephine Madrid, pianist, completed the program. Miss Pollock's voice has a beautiful crystalline quality, well expressed in her two numbers, "Wings of Night," by Watts, and "Tis Snowing," by Bemberg.

Repairing to the auditorium, clubwomen again went into session, and Mrs. Agnes McEuen, chairman of legislation, gave an analysis of various measures on the November ballot. For herself, she claimed an open mind, declaring that her opinions were subject to a possible change, but she gave such clear reasons for personal views as to each measure, that the audience could see little reason for adopting different views.

Mrs. Bonebrake introduced Miss Alice Jean Des Lages, pianist, who played with artistic skill a Von Gluck dance number of dignity and charm and a Chopin waltz, gaily melodious.

Mrs. McInnis introduced the speaker of the afternoon, Andrae B. Nordskog, who quoted Elbert Hubbard, "If you can make your fellow man think you have served him well, to make the clubwomen think seriously on the problem of 'Smashing Communism.'"

Growth of Communism He traced the growth of communism from the writings of Karl Marx and Engels, the birth of the Nationale in 1864 to the Duma in 1895 and the recent recognition of Soviet Russia by the United States. He cited the Congressional and its account of communistic activities, and stated that the Russian government had appropriated valuable trademarks and patents of this country to its own use.

He described the means by which propaganda was spread in this country, and stated that it would demand unceasing effort on the part of thinkers, and of clubwomen particularly, to overcome the effects.

The manner in which the Aleutian Islands are being charted to provide clear entry into this country was described, and the efforts of Stalin to obtain the gold

Wreath Worn by Bride Dates Back to Wedding 50 Years Ago

Sentiment and beauty of ceremony last night attended the wedding in First Baptist church of Miss Evelyn Louise Gardiner, daughter of Attorney and Mrs. J. A. Gardiner, 505 South Broadway, and Harold E. Dwyer, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Dwyer of Orange.

Carrying a shower bouquet of white sweet peas, the bride wore a white satin gown en train with a veil caught by the same orange blossom wreath worn 53 years ago by her grandmother, who sailed from London to be wedded to Dr. George Jones in Port Elizabeth, South Africa.

The wreath and the same veil had likewise been donned by two of Miss Gardiner's aunts when they were brides.

J. A. Gardiner gave his daughter in marriage. Her attendants included her sister, Miss Helen V. Gardiner as maid of honor, gowning in ruffled green organdy with matching hat and net gloves finished at the wrist with green ruffles. The Misses Dorothy Garver and Beatrice Wendell, who have been the bride's schoolmates since first-grade days, were bridesmaids. The one was in apricot organdy and the other in blue, with matching accessories. Bouquets carried by them and by the maid of honor were of blue and pink larkspur and white and pink carnations.

The bridegroom's cousin, Lawrence Krueger, was best man. Harold Post and Howard D. Shepherd were ushers.

About 150 guests were present for the ceremony, read by the Rev. Harry Evan Cwings. Mrs. Frank Harris and Mrs. Albert Schreff had decorated the church, arranging a garden setting with trailing vines intertwined with greenery and white chrysanthemums. Glowing white tapers rose from tall candelabra.

There was a reception in the church parlors. The new Mrs. Dwyer cut her wedding cake, which was a gift of Mrs. Hardy Robertson of Garden Grove. Mrs. Gardiner and Mrs. Robertson poured coffee, while Mrs. Schreff, Mrs. Frank Harris and girls of the bridal party served.

When the young couple left for a honeymoon trip, Mrs. Dwyer was wearing a dark blue silk crepe frock with black costume details. They will live in Orange, where they will be at home to their friends after October 28.

Mr. Dwyer is employed with a trucking firm in that city. He followed graduation from Orange Union High school with studies at Santa Ana Junior college. Mrs. Dwyer was graduated from Polytechnic High school with the class of 1933.

Dinner Bridge Guests Surprise Traveler With Shower

When Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Wright, 2320 Riverside Drive, last night entertained members of their dinner bridge club, the evening served a double purpose. For in addition to the interest of the dinner and its subsequent contract sessions, club members joined in complimenting Mrs. Fred Newcomb jr. with a handkerchief shower.

Mr. and Mrs. Newcomb are leaving Monday on the Citicograph tour, and the shower was a friendly gesture of interest in their travel plans. Mrs. Newcomb reciprocated by inviting the club to join them at the boat Sunday afternoon for a little farewell party.

Flowers and harmonious appointments were in evidence at the dinner hour. Covers were laid for the hosts, Mr. and Mrs. Wright, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Nilsson, Mr. and Mrs. Orlyn B. Robertson, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Westover, Mr. and Mrs. Newcomb and Mr. and Mrs. Loren Moore, special guests substituting for Mr. and Mrs. Loyal K. King, unable to be present.

The bridge contest of the evening, Mr. and Mrs. Robertson held combined high scores and received the club prize.

You and Your Friends

Mrs. F. D. Hawkinson has returned from a visit in Pasadena with Mr. and Mrs. Edward Stone, who drove to this city late last week and were accompanied home by Mrs. Hawkinson. An evening party in the home of her hosts, trips to various places of interest, and attendance at Pasadena First M. E. church for the presentation of the drama, "America! On Location," were interesting details of the visit.

Mrs. E. W. Spruance, 2215 Ross street, was in Claremont Thursday evening as guest at a dinner given by members of Scripps Scholarship committee. Guests, including donors of scholarships and chairmen of scholarship groups from Southern California cities, were entertained in Elmer Browning and Toll halls preceding the Kreisel concert in Bridges auditorium.

Among Santa Anans attending the Fritz Kreisel concert last night in Bridges auditorium, Pomona college, Claremont, were Mr. and Mrs. Burr Wellington, Mrs. Harvey Smith, Mrs. E. W. Spruance, Miss Nell Sumner, Mr. and Mrs. J. Leslie Steffenson, Mrs. Merrill W. Hollingsworth, Mrs. W. Bradford Hells, Mrs. J. Frank Burke and Mrs. Loyal K. King.

College Women Return From Conference

Returning from the regional conference of American association of University Women held Saturday at Redlands University, Mrs. Horace A. Scott, president of the Orange County branch, and Mrs. C. J. Smith are eagerly awaiting the next local meeting, to acquaint members with the many interesting questions taken up at the convolve.

University women from all over Southern California assembled for the conference, whose keynote was "Boost for the biennial convention of the association at Los Angeles in June, 1935." State officers and committee chairmen all stressed the importance of this approaching event, and the privilege of California college women to entertain delegates from all over the United States. They dwelt also upon the importance of directing all thoughts and activities to the convention theme, "The Role of College Women as Makers of Social History."

Orange County Branch members are striving to increase their membership this year by drawing every eligible woman into the organization. This will entitle them to a larger representation at the biennial.

Church Societies

First Methodist Amistad class held a Halloween dinner Tuesday evening in the church dining room, where long tables lighted with tapers were decorated in orange and black.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Floyd Vale and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hein were hosts, escorting the group to the social hall after dinner. Following a short business meeting conducted by the president, Mrs. Jack Snow, sides were chosen for a scavenger hunt. Spending an hour in a search for designated articles, members returned to the hall for refreshments of pumpkin pie, doughnuts and coffee.

Present, with Mr. and Mrs. Vale and Mr. and Mrs. Hein, the hosts, were Messrs and Mesdames Gilbert Brown, Genneth Brown, Charles Fox, Gale Harmon, Richard Howland, Earle Kent, George Lawrence, Ted Lawrence, Delbert Lewis, C. M. Linthicum, Cecil Marks, J. B. Robinson, C. A. Rowe, Jack Snow, Charles Yance, George Townsend, L. J. Shannon, Ralph Rowe and Mrs. Nellie Hughes.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Brown and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Rockwell will be hosts at the November party.

Mrs. George Waterman was hostess this week to members of First Baptist Fidelis class, receiving them in her home "on the hill" in Costa Mesa. All the rooms were bright and colorful with chrysanthemums and other autumn flowers.

A delightful day was shared by members who chatted in friendly fashion as they busied themselves with needlework. At noon all work was laid aside and a covered dish luncheon was served. Mr. Waterman joined his wife's guests for this interval.

Mrs. Waterman's guests included the class teacher, Mrs. O. S. Catland, Mesdames P. H. Peters, George Spourrier, David Meyer, Emma Wilson, I. L. Marchant, Perry Grout, Effie Miller, H. I. Pearson, Glenn M. E. Lawrence, A. T. Davis, Sudie Joiner, W. H. McMurphy, Dorothy Thomas, W. A. Ritzer, Mit Phillips, Augusta Whitney, H. A. DeWolfe, R. L. Blanchard, J. R. Farwell, R. L. Wilson, Walter Lamb, Ida Clark Tripp, and Margaret Gamble whose late husband, Dr. Gamble, was a distinguished Baptist minister.

Members of Sunday school class No. 2 of Southside Church of Christ met in the church basement Tuesday night for a venison dinner with the main course provided by B. Clyde Mackey of Laguna Beach, as the result of a recent successful hunting trip. It was made a gala occasion and the dinner was a most interesting and many of the guests were to the host upon his skin. A musical program to follow, features of which had been planned by Mr. Mackey in addition to his host duties, as he is teacher of the class.

Mrs. Mackey joined with her husband in all hospitable plans for the evening which they shared with Messrs. and Mesdames F. E. Atchley, G. W. Slater, V. A. Harwell, W. S. Irvine, Claude Keeling, Sid Herren, E. T. Underwood, O. B. Mason, J. H. Boydston, Henry Bass, H. H. Poney, Jessa Herren, John Adams, L. W. Herren, Arthur Holmes, Albert Denila, Miss Ruth Clark, Mrs. Lula Mae Herren and James N. Ruth of Santa Ana, and Mr. and Mrs. Viri Casey of Fullerton.

MAKE THIS MODEL AT HOME A JAUNTY JUNIOR DRESS WITH PETER PAN COLLAR PATTERN 1978 BY ANNE ADAMS

Round collars are coming to the top of the fall dress. We think they should, for they are so very becoming, but what collar can do its duty in the way of flattery without the help of the frock itself? This pretty design has both the round collar—and a bodice with a V shaped yoke in the back and a nicked panel in front—trim sleeves, made either long or short—and a paneled skirt with three inverted pleats for freedom. Buttons, which are particularly good this year, are used for trimming on the bodice and the sleeves. Make it up in wool, challis or jersey. It's as chic for the business girl as for the school girl.

Pattern 1978 is available in sizes 8, 10, 12, 14 and 16. Size 12 takes 31-8 yards 36-inch fabric and 3-8 yard contrasting. Illustrated step-by-step sewing instructions included.

Friends Give Surprise Housewarming For The Swangers

Staging a surprise housewarming Wednesday night in the new home of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse E. Swanger, 2429 Heliotrope Drive, a group of friends had success in keeping their plans for the event a complete surprise to the honored couple.

Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Shidler were first arrivals at the home, and were being shown through the rooms when other guests arrived in a body. Mrs. Shidler and Mrs. William Lawrence, who had made arrangements for the event, soon had six tables in readiness for games of bridge and cootie.

In addition to flowers brought by the self-invited group, were bouquets provided by Ivan Swanger, son of the home. Refreshments of home-made cakes and coffee were served at linen-spread tables.

Mr. and Mrs. Swanger received a gift from the assembled group.

Present were Messrs. and Mesdames W. H. Fields, Carl Fisher, J. W. Jones, William Lawrence, Carl C. Thrasher, Charles Clayton, C. M. Marvin, C. A. Rousseau, J. H. Randall, George Duke, J. H. The pottery type of china has become so popular it has superseded the higher priced china for everyday use. It has one drawback, though: tea and coffee will leave stains. Don't let that worry you, though, for they can be removed by dipping a cloth into pure liquid bleach, one of the numerous chlorox liquids on the market. Wash with soap, rinse and dry, and they'll look like new cups.

THE WEEKLY PANTRY SHELF

The UNKNOWN BLOND

By Louie Lou BROOKMAN

BEGIN HERE TODAY

DAVID BANNISTER undertakes to find out who killed Tracy King, orchestra leader found dead in his hotel apartment. Bannister, an author and former newspaper man, works on the murder case with GAINES, star reporter for the Post. Among those suspected of the crime are JULIE FRANCE, blond and pretty, known to have visited King shortly before his death; HERMAN SCURLACH, who wrote King a threatening letter; and JOE PARROT, down-and-out vaudeville actor. It is also known that MELVINA HOLLISTER, middle-aged spinster, had quarreled with King recently.

King was engaged to wealthy DENISE LANG, MATTHEW HOLLISTER, Melvina's brother, tells Bannister looked down at the knows something she is keeping from the police. Bannister goes to dinner with PARKER COLEMAN, friend of Denise Lang's. They are driving along a country road when Coleman sees a dark object ahead and shouts:

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XXVI

Bannister exclaimed sharply, "What is it?"

The roadster came to a halt, brakes grinding. Coleman jumped from the car. "Back here," he called and ran in the direction from which they had come.

Bannister followed, slower and more cautiously. He could make out now that there was something ahead. Something black and oddly shaped, lying at the side of the road just beyond the turn.

"Wait!" he called to Coleman, but the other did not wait. Panting, breathless, Bannister made the dozen yards. He knew now what it was ahead. An overturned automobile, slanting on the hillside, its wheels reared grotesquely.

"Is there anyone there?" he called.

"Can't tell. There's a flashlight in my car—!"

Coleman was off again for the flashlight. Bannister searched his pockets for matches, found them and struck one. He had to move to the other side of the overturned sedan and cup his hands to protect the blaze. The match sputtered an instant and then died, but in that instant Bannister had caught a glimpse of a man's face—white and out and bleeding.

When Coleman returned with the flashlight he found Bannister struggling with the door of the sedan. The car had fallen in such a way that the door could not be opened.

"There's a man in there!" Bannister told him. "We've got to get him out!"

Together they struggled with the door but it would not open. In the bright rays of the flashlight they saw that the man was alone in the car. He had fallen forward, his body pressed against the steering wheel. There was a good deal of blood on the man's clothing and some on the cushions of the car.

"Do you think he's alive?" Coleman asked.

"Don't know. We'll have to get him out and find out."

It was almost 20 minutes' work before they finally managed it. Coleman had stripped off his top coat and laid it on the ground. They put the man on the coat. Then Bannister, down on his knees, bent over him touching his hands.

"They're warm," he exclaimed. And a moment later, "His heart's beating!"

Bannister looked down at the figure on the ground. The man's eyes were closed. His hair was matted and there was a dark stain across his forehead and down one cheek. His upper lip had been cut and bled copiously.

Suddenly, with an exclamation that was both amazement and horror, Bannister drew back. "It's Drugan!" he cried.

"Al Drugan! He played in King's orchestra. He and King were friends. I was talking to him only the other night. Yes, it's Drugan, all right. We've got to do something! We've got to get him to a house somewhere, call a doctor—!"

By the time they reached the nearest farm house Drugan's heart was still beating, slowly and weakly but nevertheless beating, weaker and more slowly, when the doctor arrived, but it did not beat much longer.

Not for one moment did the injured man regain consciousness. There was nothing that the doctor could do for him, nothing at all. At 23 minutes past nine o'clock that night Al Drugan's earthly cares were at an end.

The women of the farm house—one middle-aged, plump and gray haired, the other slender and younger—hovered near the door of the room where Drugan's body lay.

"What will we do?" the older woman asked. "You're not going to leave him—?"

"I've called the police," Bannister told her. "They'll be here in a little while. No, they won't leave him here."

It was in a police ambulance that they took Al Drugan back to Tremont. But when the ambulance arrived at the farm house, besides the driver and his assistant, there were three other passengers. McNeal was among them and so was the police physician. The other man was from the detective bureau.

Five minutes later another, smaller car drew up in the farm yard and Sawyer, the Post photographer, stepped out. He found Bannister and asked, "What's happened? They called me at home and said there'd been a bad accident out here? I don't see any accident. What's it all about?"

Bannister explained briefly. He had called the newspaper office at the same time he had notified the police of Drugan's death.

While the physician made a hurried examination McNeal asked questions. He wanted to know where the wrecked car had been found.

"It's still there," Bannister told him. "Just as it was."

McNeal wanted to know how Drugan was lying when they found him. He wanted to know what time it was and asked a dozen other questions. Bannister left Coleman to answer them and walked away.

Sawyer had been nothing about Al Drugan to arouse admiration, so far as Bannister knew; nothing to set him apart from hundreds of others like him. Nevertheless as Bannister saw them carrying the dead man's body to the ambulance, placing it inside, he was ashamed of the emotion that came over him. He had seen deaths, plenty of them, that were more horrible. He did not understand why he was so moved now.

Presently the ambulance was on its way back to Tremont. McNeal and the other detective climbed into Parker Coleman's roadster. Bannister rode with the Post photographer and they followed the roadster to the place where the overturned sedan still lay.

Sawyer swore softly as he stepped out, surveying the wreck, had plunged from the road. "He head-lights of the two cars supplied light enough to show what had happened. The sedan fallen forward, turning completely over. It was lying with its wheels in the air and the hillside was gashed with deep, ragged furrows, showing the path it had taken.

"Some smash-up!" Sawyer exclaimed and repeated it. "Some smash-up!"

He became busy immediately, setting his camera from its case and rummaging for flashlight powder. Bannister moved on to join the others. He and Coleman tried to show the detectives how the driver and his assistant, besides the steering wheel and the side of the car. McNeal seemed interested in the tracks down the hillside and inspected them with his flashlight.

He went back to look at the tracks a second time but before he did that he examined the interior of the sedan. It was large and rather cumbersome, a model six or eight years out of date. There were some road maps in the door pocket, a piece of cloth that had been used to remove dust, a circular letter from a musical instrument company, addressed to Drugan, and a can of shoe polish.

McNeal, poking about the upholstered seat, suddenly drew forth an object. "Ah!" he exclaimed. "Look at this!"

It was a quart bottle, almost empty of the dark fluid inside. McNeal held the bottle to his nostrils, removed it hastily with a grimace.

"What is it?" Bannister asked. "Smell it."

Bannister sniffed the contents of the bottle. It was whisky—whisky that was so vile-smelling it must have been among the cheapest grades the bottleggers supply.

Bannister returned the bottle. "So that's it!" he said. "Well if he drank all that I'm not surprised he couldn't keep in the road."

Suddenly there was a roar like a gun shot and a flash of light. Sawyer, the photographer, called "Crowd up close together, will you? I want to shoot another one—"

Bannister managed to step aside before the second picture was taken. He did not fancy his likeness appearing in the public press. Besides there were too many in the group.

He turned and found Parker Coleman at his side.

"Say," Coleman asked, "what are these detectives doing? Why didn't they just send someone out to bring in the car? I don't understand it. It was just an accident, wasn't it? I mean they don't suspect—"

"I don't know," Bannister told him. "I've been wondering the same thing but I'm going to find out."

It was not until they were back to central headquarters that Bannister got the answer. Then he said, "Look here, McNeal, just exactly what do you make of all this? Drugan's death was an accident, wasn't it? How could it have been anything but an accident?"

The captain's eyes were on the cigar he was lighting and he did not raise them as he spoke. "It could," he said, "have been murder. A murder cleverly planned to look like an accident."

The music department, under the direction of Miss Glancy and Miss Davis, will present an operaetta, December 13 and 14, entitled "The Prince of Peddlers." Students who will take the leading roles in the play include Margaret Elsner, princess; Stanley Pearson, peddler; Wilmer Lee, prince; Norman Haskell; Major Booby; Marlon Morrill, Dame Noodles; Bob English, Terclump; Mary Boyd and Jean Linsenbard, Ting and Ling; Alan Hollingsworth, court jester.

Assembly Program

The latest assembly was planned by Mrs. Lowe and Mr. Horn. A play

"YYYY" was given by a cast including Ruth Baker, as Mrs. Winstead; Tom Engleman, Mr. Winstead; Marvin Jacobs, Herbert; Marian Borchard, Anita; Lorraine Sweet, Caroline; Gladys Corbly, Annie, a maid-servant; Hugh Lowe, Roger.

Project in Music

All of Miss Davis' low seven music classes have been making large scrapbooks, containing pictures of famous artists and composers. The covers are originally designed, each one bearing the pupil's name and the title, "Music," in colored cut-out designs.

NEW BOOKS IN PUBLIC LIBRARY

By VERA RAMEY

Anna Ellis has already made for herself a name by her book "Life of an Ordinary Woman" and "Painful Anne Ellis." These books are a collection of work, study, and achievement. The strain finally became too great and she died at the age of 35. Her death was a tragedy to her family and to the world.

The nineteenth century had many romantic and challenging personalities. One of the most interesting of these is presented by Sachseverell Street in his biography "Life of Franz Liszt." Liszt was the first of the great virtuosi of the piano and was probably the greatest of them all. He was the champion of the musical revolution which placed Wagner among the immortals. He was a composer whose genius is still a subject of controversy. He lived a life completely free from the moral conventions of his age, and was rewarded when he was nearly sixty, by being ordained a Franciscan Abbe.

As Mr. Street presents him, Liszt was one of the leading actors of the Romantic drama, a figure of the importance of Byron, Liszt, the greatest musician in the annals of music, appeared at a critical moment, a climax in its development, summarizing its glories in himself.

Other new books in the library are: Adams, Henry — Mont-Saint-Michel and Chartres. Blunt, George — Choosing a Career. Blanquet, Dr. J. Braun — Plant Sociology. Clark, George T. — Land and the Sea.

Dr. Janet Miller is well known for her work in Central Africa. The day came when a great need was felt for the treatment of sleeping sickness among the Bantu tribes in Belgian Congo, Central Africa. For several years an effort was made to find a doctor, but without success. The very thought of Central Africa filled Dr. Miller with horror, but she nevertheless consented to the task. She has told us of this in "Jungle Fever." In her new book "Camel-Bells of Baghdad" she interprets Persia and Mesopotamia.

In Baghdad, Dr. Miller bought a native costume. Thus attired she set out to see, to taste, and to feel the life of the city of the "Arabian Nights." She mingled with the merchants in the bazaars and chatted with native women in the privacy of their gardens. After a thrilling pilgrimage to Babylon she finally crossed the desert to the Euphrates.

Mr. Durigan Finds Relief in Kellogg's ALL-BRAN

Here is his enthusiastic letter: "Am 70 years of age, and for 40 of those years there never was a week but what I had to take a pill or some kind of cathartic. I took everything, but gained only temporary relief. Until last spring my daughter, who is a nurse in a hospital, brought me some Kellogg's ALL-BRAN."

"At the end of the week, I knew I had something that was it, and I kept on taking it. I haven't taken a cathartic since. I can eat meat any time, as often as I like, or any other kind of food, and no constipation." Mr. L. M. Durigan, 6811 Buffalo Ave., Jacksonville, Florida.

Laboratory tests show Kellogg's ALL-BRAN provides "bulk" to the intestines, and vitamin B to help muscle tone. Also iron for the blood.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that of lettuce. Inside the body it forms a soft mass. Gently, it clears out the intestinal passages.

Two much safer than patent medicines. Two tablespoons daily are usually sufficient. With each meal in serious cases. If not relieved this way, see your doctor.

Sold in the red-and-green package. At all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

THE TINYMITES

STORY BY MAL COCHRAN—PICTURES BY KING

The cabin man chopped chips out for an hour, then said, "My arms are sore. Who wants to carry on for me, while I sit down and rest?"

"The boat I'm making is for you, so you all should be willing to turn in and lend a hand, and try to do your very best."

"That's fair," said little Scouty. "I will gladly make some big chips for you. Look out, now, all of you Tinites. Lots of room is what I need."

He worked away for quite a while, and then the man said, with a smile, "The boat soon will be finished. You are showing lots of speed."

However, Scouty shortly said, "I've had enough. I've often read of woodmen who work all day long. That is too much for me. "Here, Coppy, it is your turn, now. Go right ahead. We've shown you how." "You bet I will," snapped Coppy. "And some real work you will see."

Thus hours passed by and, one by one, the Tinites worked and had their fun. At last the cabin man cried, "Stop! The boat, right now, looks great."

"We'll put it in the stream and then you can start having fun again," Wee Goldy loudly shouted. "Fine! Gee, I can hardly wait!"

"I only hope the thing will float. Who'll be the captain of the boat?" "I will," replied brave Scouty. "I will sit up at the bow."

Then little oars were quickly made. "I'll row the boat. I'm not afraid," cried Coppy. "Come on, Tinites, I guess we're ready now."

When all the tots had hopped aboard, the cabin man shoved it and roared, "Now, have a happy journey. We will meet again some day."

"I hope so," little Doty cried. "And thanks a lot for this fine ride." Then Coppy started rowing and the bunch were on their way.

(The Tinites run into disaster in the next story.)

FAMOUS FOOTBALL FEATS!

YALE and Dartmouth played a heart-breaker back in 1923.

The Big Green never had beaten the Blue, and early in the game a powerful Yale squad rolled up 10 points.

But at the start of the second half Al Marsters, one of the greatest backs of all time, took matters into his own hands. He hit the Eli line with the fury of an enraged grizzly, and in six plays covered almost 60 yards for a touchdown. In five minutes he had plunged for another.

Dartmouth cohorts went wild. Here was their first victory against Yale.

But the cheers were short-lived. "Hoot" Ellis, noble son of Eli, intercepted one of Dartmouth's passes, outfooted the entire Green team, and scored a touchdown that broke 20-00 hearts.

'EATS' SUBJECT OF BROADCAST BY FRANK BELL

"Eats" is the sub-title of this week's "Romance Under the Water" broadcast by Frank T. Bell, United States Commissioner of Fisheries, U. S. Department of Commerce, from KREG at 11 a. m. tomorrow.

Commissioner Bell says: "In spite of a racial inheritance and an aptitude for fish, the American people is pitifully small. We eat fish, but generally at rare intervals and there must be some reason for this. The reasons are, apparently, that fish is somewhat messy when purchased at the market and its preparation into a palatable dish is more or less unfamiliar to the majority of housewives. Furthermore, very few people are informed as to the usual value from a health standpoint of a marine dietary."

The "Romance Under the Water" broadcasts, as prepared by Commissioner Bell, are scheduled each Saturday on KREG at 11 a. m.

Mr. J. W. Truxxawand removed to his home.

Nobel Dowezy Zindt, 37, Santa Ana, was arrested late yesterday afternoon and taken to jail with being charged with driving while drunk after his automobile is alleged to have collided with the rear of a truck driven by Herbert Miller. This morning Miller signed a second complaint charging Zindt with drunken driving.

In police court this morning Zindt entered pleas of not guilty to both charges. Police Judge Frank Trench set bail for Zindt at $100 and a $250 for the drunken driving count. Trial on both cases was set for October 29. Zindt was remanded to jail pending efforts to secure

None of the youths were able to identify Stapp or Parris or could say that the defendants were on the premises at the time the first purchases were made, or when one of the youths returned and bought another bottle after breaking one bottle.

It was brought out that after the seven remaining youths learned that their car had been taken, two of the boys went to the house of the girl who had become ill, got their car and then drove the rest of the party to Balboa.

Besides the eight youths, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Robb, with whom the youths made their home, were questioned on the case. Robb signed the complaint.

NEW YORK BONDS

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—(UP)—Speculative issues were in supply on the bond market today as selling was induced by the lower range in stocks.

Recently strong rails were under pressure, much of which was profit-taking, and losses of 1 to 2 points were registered. Industrials reacted to United Nations' irregularities lower. United States government bonds moved moderately lower, while the foreign list was relatively steady.

There were gains of fractions to about a point in Australian, Chilean, Danish, German and Polish governmental loans.

PROPOSITION NUMBER SIX WOULD PROVIDE FOR JUST PROCEDURE

In number six on the ballot, we have an initiative constitutional amendment providing for the defendant to plead guilty before the committing magistrate, rather than to force this action to go up before the superior court. The provision of the amendment is that, providing the felony with which the man is charged is not punishable with death, and the magistrate and district attorney consent thereto, and the defendant's counsel is present, then he may plead guilty.

We believe this to be a very fair and right procedure. We will quote some of the reasons advanced for this by the chairman of the subcommittee on the administration of criminal justice of the state bar.

The purposes of the amendment permitting the defendant to plead as to his guilt before the committing magistrate are:

To save the expense of the preliminary examination;

To shorten the time required to complete cases where the defendant desires to plead guilty;

To do away with the temptation to put pressure on accused persons to induce pleas of guilty;

To save the time of prosecutors, witnesses and jurors in cases where the defendant desires to confess his guilt;

To save the enormous expense involved in the conduct and reporting of preliminary examinations.

Much of the expense involved in the administration of justice is caused by cumbersome delays in court procedure which are unavoidable under the present law.

At the present time a defendant charged with a felony is first brought before a police magistrate or justice court for arraignment. By law he cannot plead guilty at this arraignment. Frequently a period of two months then elapses before the accused reaches the superior court where he is permitted to plead guilty.

We would advise voting for this amendment.

STATE CIVIL SERVICE CONSIDERED IN NUMBER SEVEN

Number seven on the ballot is an initiative constitutional amendment on the subject of state civil service. It would prohibit permanent appointments and promotions in state civil service, except as those appointments were based upon continued merit, efficiency and fitness, ascertained by competitive examination.

The object of this amendment is to lessen, as far as may be, the influence of partisan political activity, in the application of the civil service laws and to promote efficiency and economy in state government.

Its great purpose is to eliminate the "spoils" system from the employment of men working for the state. As is well known, The Register has emphasized that one of the chief curses of our political system is the degree to which the "spoils" is used in political life.

We believe this initiative amendment is an honest attempt to apply the principles of merit and efficiency to the appointment of men to public positions, rather than the mere fact that they have worked for the successful candidate.

We quote a few paragraphs from the arguments for the measure, presented by Will C. Wood, former superintendent of public instruction, and Manchester Boddy, publisher of the Los Angeles Illustrated Daily News:

The act provides for a nonpartisan Personnel board of five members to serve ten-year terms so staggered that each new governor upon taking office will have but one appointment on a five-man board. This four-to-one ratio will be an effective means of preventing political interference with the efficient administration of state business.

The legislature is prohibited from exempting any group from the merit system of employment although a few agencies are temporarily exempted, with the provision that most of the exempt classes may be included by future legislation.

To sum up, this constitutional amendment provides: (1) Employment in the classified service based solely on merit and efficiency; (2) a nonpartisan Personnel board; (3) prohibition against exemptions from the merit system of employment; (4) correction of the temporary political appointment evil.

We would advise voting "Yes" on Number seven.

CONSTITUTIONAL CONVENTION PROVIDED BY NUMBER EIGHT

A provision for holding a constitutional convention is provided for in an Assembly Concurrent resolution, which will be designated as number eight on the ballot.

We believe that there are few things more fundamentally essential than the revising and adoption of a constitution for the state of California.

The state constitution was adopted just 30 years after gold was discovered in California. We then were only a mining and agricultural state. There were no great cities.

Our whole economic life has largely changed, and the constitution of California, because it has been used to legislate rather than define fundamental principles, has become nothing short of a monstrosity, in the light of what a real constitution should be.

A constitution embodying such fundamental, organic, and basic principles, comprising the framework for the state government in harmony with the needs of the present hour, could be adopted by a convention of delegates elected with that purpose in view, that would aid greatly in simplifying and clarifying the laws, the rights of the citizens and the powers of the legislature.

Of course such a new constitution could only be formulated by the convention itself. It would have to be submitted to the people of the state. If it failed of adoption, the old constitution would prevail.

Incidentally, after a constitution has been provided, in order to prevent it being made legislative in its character, it should be made more difficult to amend it, so as to require greater time for investigation and knowledge of the voters, than it does to pass a piece of legislation.

We should advise voting "Yes" on number eight.

"WHAT NEXT IN JUGOSLAVIA?"

Those who had read Louis Adamic's book "The Native's Return" were thankful for the background it afforded to the news of the assassination of the King of Yugoslavia and anticipated a statement from the author following that event. In the current number of the Nation he presents his interpretation of the events which have recently transpired in Yugoslavia under the heading "What Next in Yugoslavia?"

After presenting in brief character sketches the three men who make up the Regency which it was intended by the late King Alexander should govern until the majority of the boy king, he says: "I believe the Regency will be short-lived and poor little Peter probably will return to his school in England. The ludicrousness of having a boy king will tend to augment republican sentiment throughout the country, and it is not impossible, if the Serbs, Croats, and Slovenes are permitted by the big Powers to begin to solve their own problems that within a year or two Yugoslavia will be a union of four semi-autonomous republics—Slovenia, Croatia, Serbia, and Macedonia—with Belgrade as federal capital." The next development, this authority on Yugoslavian affairs states, would be a revolution, not undesirable in his estimation, in Bulgaria which would then become the fifth republic in the Yugoslav federation. As a result of that, he believes, the Balkans will turn from Western Europe to Russia which is their natural ally, whether it is Czarist or Bolshevik in its government.

Prior to these changes, Yugoslavia will be forced to make a choice between allegiance with France and Germany. There is no question of any alliance with Italy, so bitter is the hatred toward Italy.

"The immediate situation is an immensely complex, dangerous one," Mr. Adamic concludes. Yugoslavian crises look of more or less constant recurrence in the future and weighted with eventualities. Mr. Adamic's book has more in it than a discussion of the characteristic and political situation of the various peoples living in the state of Yugoslavia—there is a surprising emotional element in the book—and its reading is recommended to those who want to have a knowing outlook on events which will happen in the future as well as those which have occurred in the recent past.

Farmers Better Off
Oakland Tribune

Losses of the drought have been checked against gains elsewhere. Farm totals, as announced by the Bureau of Agricultural Economics, reveal that which is cheering.

Indications, the Federal agency reports, are that the cash income for the farmer in 1934 will be 19 per cent more than in 1933 and 39 per cent more than in 1932. This would mean a great deal of money in channels which have been far from full.

To be sure, as Ralph H. Taylor, executive secretary of the Agricultural Council of California remarks, the gain is not entirely "net." While the farmers' cash income has been growing, prices for what he buys have gone up. From 1932 to 1933 his cost of living went up two per cent; from 1933 to 1934 it went up 14 per cent. There still is a margin in his favor and as Mr. Taylor says, "making every allowance there was a marked improvement which saved thousands of farmers from bankruptcy and enabled the great majority to catch up, at least to some extent, on their back bills."

It is the opinion of this farm authority that if the present temporary improvement in the farm situation is to be made permanent both the individual farmer and the industry as a whole "must guard against leaning on the general relief program any longer than is absolutely necessary." It is important that agriculture be put upon its feet and probably more so that, once there, it will be able to carry its own load. When agriculture may say to Uncle Sam that emergency measures are no longer needed or desired, a bright sign for national recovery will be visible.

Dr. Eckener Pursues North Atlantic Hope
San Bernardino Sun

Dr. Hugo Eckener is back in the United States for a brief visit. It is useless to inquire his purpose for the veteran Zeppelin commander is continuing to hammer away at his announced goal—a North Atlantic airship line.

A new Zeppelin, the LZ 129, is in course of construction and has been designed for the proposed United States-Europe route. The actual start of regular service, however, is some time distant with major obstacles yet to be solved. Most pressing of the problems faced by the genial doctor is the choice of a suitable American terminal.

It is a far cry from the spectacular around-the-world flight of the veteran Graf Zeppelin, and her numerous Atlantic crossings to the newer Zeppelins, yet the Graf continues to maintain regular unheralded service from Germany to Brazil. It is no secret that Dr. Eckener wanted the first line to be between the United States and Germany but American help was not forthcoming. The new ship will accommodate 50 passengers as compared to 20 in the Graf.

DOCKS

You find them in the harbor mouth,
You pass them in the stream;
They loom beside
The whispering tide

Like figures in a dream.
Their shabby piles rise gaunt and gray
Beneath the summer sun—
The aged, sagging, tottering docks,
The gray and rusty and trembling docks—
The ghosts of trim and tidy docks
Whose day is dead and done.

They've welcomed many a vessel home
From a foreign land;
Swung to and fro
In ebb or flow
Beside the shining strand.
Great seas have swept their trembling planks
When they rolled roaring past—
The broken, sea-worn, shaking docks,
The creaking swaying groaning docks,
The shattered weatherbeaten docks—
They're rotting wrecks at last.

I covet no man's stately place,
But I delight to view
The clouds sail by Beneath a sky
That's one vast bowl of blue.
And here and there beside the shore
Half hidden by the haze
Perhaps a dozen crumbling docks,
A rank and file of ancient docks,
Storm-beaten, ocean-battered docks
That dream of happier days.

Thoughts On Modern Life

BY GLEN FRANK

FIVE DISCOVERY VENTURES

The Roosevelt recovery effort has ventured bravely along five distinct paths, only one of which was forecast in the platform of the Democratic Party in the 1932 campaign.

These five paths are, viz:

(1) The Industrial Path.

In following this path the NRA was created. Its objective was to swell the purchasing power of the masses primarily by two devices: (a) the raising of wages, and (b) the widening of employment through the reduction of hours. Since these two moves manifestly would add to the costs of production, the government put the stamp of its approval upon the fixing of prices and the deliberate restriction of production so that industries might have a better chance to make profits out of which to pay these added production costs.

(2) The Agricultural Path.

In following this path the AAA was created. Stripped of its myriad details, its aim was to control crop output downward and to fatten the farmer's pocketbook with government bounties and thus increase the purchasing power of the farmers as the NRA sought to increase the purchasing power of the industrial workers.

(3) The Credit Path.

In following this path the RFC, the Federal Reserve, the Farm Credit Administration, the Federal Housing Administration and others have been used to pump the life blood of credit into the veins and arteries of banks, factories, farms and individual enterprise. No stone has been left unturned to expand credit by direct governmental action.

(4) The Budget Path.

In following this path the 1932 platform promise drastically to cut the cost of the federal government by 35 per cent has been confined to the "ordinary" expenses of government, with the lid taken wholly off on "extraordinary" expenditures of government, on the theory that, when private enterprise is in low gear, public enterprise should speed up its expenditures as a method of priming the pump. This gave rise to PWA, CWA, CCC, FERA, and so on.

(5) The Monetary Path.

In following this path the gold standard has been suspended, the gold purchase plan has been put into effect, the dollar has been revalued at a little better than 50 cents, and silver has been nationalized, all of which has been done in order to raise and to stabilize prices that had been falling dangerously.

What have we found as we have followed these paths? I shall turn to this question tomorrow.

Our Children

AHEAD OF TIME

Dear Children: Arriving too early so that you have to wait a long time is wasteful. You might have been using that time for something else. You could have studied that lesson you are worried about. You might have done that errand for your mother. Now you've been waiting around doing nothing but wishing the school doors would open.

Arriving ahead of time, long before you are expected, annoys people almost as much as being late does. Often it inconveniences them more because they are doing what they planned to do with this time and you come along demanding attention. You interrupt work, you give a lot of trouble to people who have trouble enough. And what good did it do you?

Sitting in an empty room, waiting outside a closed door, walking up and down a station platform wishing you had stayed at home in a comfortable chair, standing on the corner waiting for the crowd to come and knowing they aren't due for another twenty minutes only gives you discomfort, ruins your disposition, and makes other people out of patience with you. They wish you would learn to tell time and then learn to time yourself a bit so you could team up better.

There was a woman who was always ahead of time. She gave herself such a lot of trouble that she had to get to bed to get over it. She seemed to get so far ahead of things that she did double work and sort of met herself coming back. When she had company coming for dinner on Wednesday night she began getting ready for them on Monday. Right after she had hung out the washing she began clearing things up, sweeping the porches and polishing the brass, cleaning the silver, arranging the rooms. Then somebody would come along and make tracks and marks all over things and she would sigh and get out the pails and mops and brooms and start over again to get things in shape for the company. That kept her rather busy without getting much ahead. When the great night rolled around she cooked things long ahead of time. Then she stood over them anxiously endeavoring to keep them warm until it was time to serve them. You can imagine that the dinner did not taste any too well, and that the poor tired woman didn't enjoy her party very much. She had gone to that party several times over and naturally she was pretty thoroughly tired of it when at last the actual time arrived. After that she went to bed to get over it.

It is well to prepare for what one knows is coming. But there is such a thing as being too far ahead. Measure your time. Judge how long a time you have and about how much of it you will need to save for preparation and be on time. Don't waste precious minutes fretting and waiting because you got ahead of yourself. Get a reputation for being on time. If you have to watch the hands go round the face of your watch, do so. By and by you won't get the feel of time and you won't need to watch so closely. But be careful—watch your step. This is an important matter for you and those who deal with you.

(Mr. Patri will give personal attention to inquiries from parents and school teachers on the care and development of children. Write him in care of this paper, enclosing a three-cent stamp, addressed envelope for reply.)
